

Malenkov Peace Talk Bid for Russian Backing

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington (AP)—Just because Malenkov didn't threaten war in his funeral oration for Stalin is no reason for the West to feel safer. Malenkov sounded fairly peaceful because he had to.

It's the Communist line: Russia is the No. 1 peace-loving nation. Stalin established it. Malenkov has been following it. He must do so here at the start of his regime, at least, to build confidence of the Russian masses in him.

War talk the first time he opened his mouth after Stalin's death would cause more fright than devotion. What he and the party actually do later is not necessarily connected with what Malenkov says now or later.

He said his policy is based on the "Lenin-Stalin premise of the possibility of the prolonged co-existence and peaceful competition of two different systems, capitalist and socialist."

The trouble with the word "prolonged" as he used it is that it does not mean "forever." Prolonged means for a while. Lenin laid down the doctrine which plainly says "peaceful co-existence" can't last forever.

"As long as capitalism and socialism remained, we cannot live in peace. In the end one or the other will triumph—a funeral requiem will be sung either over the Soviet Republic or over world capitalism. This is a re-prise in war."

The Communists already have proved in Korea what they'd try when they thought they might get away with it. From communism's viewpoint it's good psychology, for more than one reason, to call Russia the No. 1 peace lover.

In the first place, the Stalin-Malenkov problem is different from Hitler's. When he came to power the German people humiliated by their World War I defeat, felt bitter and mistreated.

They had an old tradition of nationalism. Hitler pumped them full of that to make them fighting mad. Since they had also an old militaristic tradition, he appealed to that, too.

And because the Germans felt crowded, he could direct them to war with promises of more living space and revenge for World War I. By threatening war he strengthened his position with the Germans.

But the Russians came out of World War II victorious. They felt neither humiliated nor mistreated. So they had neither need nor desire for revenge.

They were induced to prepare for war by repeatedly telling them they were innocent peace-loving people surrounded by enemies getting ready to attack them. That puts the six million Communist party members and the other 204 million Russians not permitted in the party all in the same pot.

That's the pot Stalin stirred up. And Malenkov himself vigorously stirred it last October when, addressing the 19th All-Soviet Communist Party Con-

Church Casaba Team Honored

Liberty—Sixty attended the banquet Tuesday evening at the Liberty Christian Church of Christ to honor the Christian Endeavor basketball team. The Home Builders class sponsored the dinner. Rev. John Meyers gave the invocation.

Lester Stringer, manager of the team, was master of ceremonies. On the program were two trio selections by Mrs. Milbrey Sipe, Miss Vida Standley and Miss Alice Standley. Charles Moore gave a reading. Connie Taylor led the singing and Mrs. Lester Stringer was in charge of the devotion.

Honored on the basketball team and presented with letters were Eddie Warrenburg, Fred Bolton, Louis Kurth, Jr., Boyd Aydelott, Norman Behrens, Jimmie Lehman, and Delbert Bolton who was the captain of the team.

Lester Stringer, who coached the team, also was presented with a letter by the captain, Delbert Bolton.

Girls receiving recognitions for their support were Connie Taylor, Patty Lloyd, Mary Bolton, Melodee Rains, Alice Standley and Margaret Seeger.

Mrs. Roland Seeger was the chairman of the banquet. Also on the committee were Mrs. Wilbert Kurth, Mrs. Louis Kurth, and Mrs. Sandford Kent. Others assisting were Mrs. Lester Stringer, Mrs. Arthur Wirth, Mrs. Harold Plew and Mrs. K. G. Cowman.
