

Students Start Clean-up Drive

A big clean-up campaign has started at Salem high school to rid the school grounds of waste paper.

The plan for cleaning up the grounds was presented to the high school's student council several weeks ago and then the president, Pat Largent, appointed a committee to make plans. The building and grounds committee is working with the cooperation of the principal, E. A. Carleton.

The committee consists of Bev Lamb, Ron Anderson, Carol Streibig, Roger Weaver, and Betty Harrison. Lamb and Anderson are the chairmen.

A discussion was held in the home rooms Monday and then that morning a fire drill was held and the students all went out on the grounds and picked up the paper.

The point has been made that the most glaring mess is made by the students who eat in their cars. Additional containers have been placed on the grounds and the administration office has promised to haul away the trash and fix the shrubbery.

Wesley Stewart, uncontested candidate for exalted ruler of Salem lodge No. 336, BPO Elks.

First Hearing On Zoning Set

Westside property owners and industrialists will have the first opportunity to express themselves at a public hearing on the proposed new zoning code.

The first of five hearings, to be held in strategic parts of the city, will be at Westside hall next Wednesday night at 7:30.

Later hearings will be held before the entire planning and zoning commission, and finally before the city council, before the code is adopted.

Of the five regional hearings only one other has been definitely scheduled. This will be at Mayflower hall April 6 for the benefit of the people north of Market street. Weekly regional meetings, however, are planned. Places of the other meetings are Leslie Junior High School, for the district south of Mission and west of the Southern Pacific main line; Richmond school, for the area south of Market and east of the SP; and City hall for the rest of the city.

Produce dealers operating in Oregon are reminded that their annual license must be renewed by April 1 if they expect to do business after that date. This applies both to those holding wholesale or produce peddler licenses.

The state department of agriculture is mailing application forms to all licensees of record. Firms or individuals just entering business should request the form from the department at Salem or its branch office at 372 State Office Building, Portland. The department points out that the metal license plate accompanying the license must be displayed at the rear of the vehicle and must be visible at all times.

Stewart Next Exalted Ruler

No additional nominations were made for officers at the Salem Elks' meeting Thursday night and Wesley Stewart seemed certain to be the new exalted ruler of the lodge. The annual election will be next week.

Other nominations, all without contests, are: John Graham, leading knight; Robert Jones, loyal knight; James Pike, lecturing knight; Harry Wiedmer, secretary; Edward Dimbat, treasurer; Earl Croghan, tiler; Gilbert Wynkoop, trustee; and Clinton Standish, alternative representative to the grand lodge.

F.G.W. Pickford, Lebanon, Dead

Lebanon — Francis George W. Pickford, secretary of the Elks lodge since its organization here, died Wednesday night at the community hospital.

He was a native of Pickford, Mich., born there March 24, 1878. He came to Oregon 21 years ago spending the past 23 years in Lebanon. In addition to his Elks membership, he belonged to the A.F. & A.M. being a former secretary of the lodge here.

Surviving are his widow, Augusta Pickford; daughter, Mrs. Frances Bourn, Tacoma; brother, A. F. Pickford and a sister and half-sister all living in Michigan.

Elks funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from the local Elks temple. Burial will be in the Lebanon IOOF cemetery.

Strawberry Plant Inspectors Posted

With strawberry plants now being readied for market call, the state department of agriculture has posted inspectors in the major producing areas of the state.

They have been assigned to Malheur county, Tidewater area in Lincoln county, at Hood River and at Salem, the latter to serve the Willamette valley. Under the strawberry plant certification program, plants must this year pass the state inspections for grade and quality in order to be eligible for tags.

About 16 million plants are under the certification program, and pretty close to half the acreage is in Malheur county.
