Malenkov May See This As Time to Make Peace

Washington (AP) — Malenkov may think this is a good time to make peace in Korea, or at least to talk about it. That might have been his purpose at his rubber-stamp election in Moscow yesterday in saying: "There is . . . no question which cannot be settled by peaceful means." He could not lose much by gestures about a Korean settlement, whether or not he was in earnest. Even if he was against peace but talked peace he could, if the war continued, use it for propaganda, blaming the West. A few dramatic moves that focused attention on him would be so much gravy for the comparatively unknown Malenkov who is suddenly trying to fill Stalin's big shoes as Soviet premier. Malenkov will need years to capture the place Stalin held in the minds of the Russian people and the communist leadership in the Red satellite countries. The Russian communist party for 29 years had built up Stalin as a kind of super genius and guardian of the flock. Yet, in spite of such obvious Stalin successes as turning back Hitler's invading armies, keeping control of Russia and grabbing the satellites, he had some failures: Germany and Western Europe, in the first couple of chaotic years after the war, may have seemed within his grasp, but communist influence in them at the time of his death was on the ebb. Further, by starting the Korean war he drove the U. S. and Western Europe into alliance and rearmament. And the Chinese and North Korean communists, who did the dying in Korea for Stalin, may have had some misgivings about that. If Malenkov could bring peace in Korea he might feel it would make him look cleverer than Stalin, at least among some of those who wanted peace in Korea. At the same time a Korean settlement might soften up the

Red Cross Short in Woodburn Budget

Woodburn — Lloyd Froom, chairman of the Red Cross fund raising campaign for the Woodburn area, reports the drive completed, with donations totaling $1608.89, only a little more than 80 per cent of the assigned quota of $2000. In order to meet the full share of the support of the Red Cross program, funds must come from two sources, according to Froom. One is for those who were not contacted during the drive to send in their contributions. The other is for those who have already contributed to increase the amount due to the great need of the Red Cross this year. Contributors may mail or bring their contributions to Froom at the Woodburn branch of the First National Bank of Portland or to either of the chiefs, Homer Wadsworth at the Bank of Oregon, or Mrs. Harris Nelson at 578 Third street.

Wants to Learn if Ammo Used on Shows

Washington (AP) — Sen. Robert C. Hendricks said today Senate investigators should find out whether ammunition from Korean stocks was wasted in "shows" for Congressmen and other visiting dignitaries. The New Jersey Republican said he will suggest to chairman Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) that her ammunition subcommittee look into two reports alleging that such firing displays were staged for VIPs. Hendricks is a member of the subcommittee.

Red Collective Farm System Breaking Down

By PHIL NEWSOM (United Press Foreign Analyst) The coming year may be one of famine for millions of persons behind the Iron Curtain. It is the result of the almost complete failure of the collective farm system. Collectivization of farms was one of the basic principles of Lenin and has been followed slavishly by the Russian Communists, both in Russia and the satellites. Now, as result of Moscow's heavy hand, farming is in a state of chaos in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Proof of how bad things are is found in many official Communist pronouncements. For example, fodder is so short in Poland that peasants have been forced to slaughter their livestock rather than let it starve. Poland had 500,000 fewer pigs last year than in 1949, which was itself a lean year. Hungary's Exports Drop Hungary, which once drew a major portion of its foreign revenue from its meat exports, now has virtually stopped shipping meat and has stepped up its fodder imports. Czechoslovakia's meat production plan is "unfilled."
