200 at Banquet Honoring Auxiliary National Head

About 200 attended the banquet in the Marion hotel Saturday evening honoring Mrs. Rae Ashton of Vernal, Utah, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, upon her official visit to Oregon.

Mrs. Jack Eakin of Dallas was mistress of ceremonies and introduced the guests.

Security is not only the duty of servicemen, but also of each and every one of the 4,000,000 members of the auxiliary, largest patriotic organization, Mrs. Ashton told the group.

"Close to our hearts are the disabled and hospitalized veterans who are increasing in number and I hope the services of the veterans administration will be expanded rather than deluted as the need is great," she said. There are 12,000 volunteer hospital workers, who are auxiliary members, working in the 180 hospitals in this country and more will be trained to meet the demand. More than 400,000 children have received aid through the auxiliary and 65,000 have received direct aid through the annual poppy program. Mrs. Ashton urged everyone to sign up in civil defense work and to work for a strong civil military defense to keep America strong. "We also need economic, military

 "This same condition still exists," Ohmart said. "At present the state tax commission is carrying on a 10-year reappraisal program in the state and when this program has progressed sufficiently to bring about some equity in our tax structure, this and other exemptions from the corporate excise tax might be eliminated. Explained by Ohmart

Ohmart said that 265 corporations come under the exemption. Property owned by these real estate corporations are now assessed for real property tax on basis of 39 percent of its true value while other property is assessed at average of 25 percent of its true value.

He added that if the exemption was removed, the real estate corporations would be required to pay 8 percent on its net earnings as compared to 5.6 percent paid by other corporations.

Opposition to the adoption of the report signed by the majority of the committee was voiced by Reps. Carl Francis and George Layman. State Losses Mounting

Rep. Francis declared that other tax study committees had given the subject far more study than the house tax committee had been able to devote to the subject. All such groups, he declared, had recommended removal of this exemption. He also said that more and more corporations are coming under the exemption so that the losses to the state are mounting year by year.

Rep. Russell Hudson, one of the tax committee members who signed the majority report, warned the house members that removal of the exemption would rob counties of real property taxes.

 Rep. David Baum, La-Grande, argued that the bill would reduce public health costs by getting "chiselers" off the welfare rolls. He also urged the right of taxpayers to know how their money is being spent.

Attacked by Sweetland
 Sweetland, who made the motion to put the bill into Harvey's social welfare committee, said the bill is "unsound, unwise, discriminatory and highly prejudicial."

He also objected to the bill's emergency clause, which makes it impossible to file a referendum attack against it.

Sweetland argued that if the taxpayer is entitled to know how his money is being spent, there should be public inspection of income tax and farm subsidy records.

While Baum said that Indiana, the first state to make its rolls public, has reduced its rolls 10 per cent, Harvey answered that the reduction was made solely by better economic conditions in the state.

Exciting new cream gives 'long life' to your beauty
 There is a new cream that can do more for you in a half hour than you ever dreamed possible. You can see and feel the difference in your skin after one 30 minute application. This new cream is a Frances Denney preparation and she names her wonderful new cream Viva... long life to your beauty.

Viva seems to recapture the baby-smoothness of the skin and bring about younger-looking beauty. Little lines and creases on the face and neck seem to fill and vanish. Viva soothes away lines of worry and tension.

Viva perks up the slackness of tired, tense skin. Viva acts to restore the youthful elasticity of the skin. A lifeless looking skin will appear to have new life. Viva can help you look younger. You do not have to leave this exciting new cream on overnight. Viva can do its important work in a half hour. Viva works wonders for all types of skin—and it can unhesitatingly be used by those many, many women who have dry skin or sensitive skin. The oils in Viva are so combined that the skin is soothed and softened and smoothed. A sensitive skin responds to the soothing effects of Viva—the lubricating qualities of Viva discourage dryness and that stiff, dry, wrinkled feeling disappears.

If your skin is dry, if your skin is sensitive, if there are little lines, maybe lines not so little, if you want to look younger—and if by above all, you want your beauty to last... you need Viva. Frances Denney promises that your precious beauty can have long life when you use Viva faithfully.
