

Convict at Prison Stabbed

A convict was stabbed in the chest at Oregon State penitentiary Tuesday afternoon but was described as in pretty good condition Wednesday by prison doctors. No major veins or arteries were cut, they said.

Warden Virgil O'Malley said that Harold Peak, 26, was the convict who was injured in a fight with one or two other convicts about 4 o'clock in Cellblock D.

Guards who heard sounds of the scuffle rushed to the scene to find Peak alone in his cell. A thin, narrow-bladed 'hand-made' knife was found nearby and is believed to be the weapon used on Peak.

Prison officials are pretty sure they know who did it, O'Malley said, but lack proof at present. The investigation is continuing.

Peak is serving seven years from Coos county for arson and larceny.

Unions Accused Of Discriminations

Twenty-one per cent of the complaints filed under the Oregon fair employment practices law have been against labor unions, State Labor Commissioner W. E. Kimsay said Tuesday.

The law, passed in 1949, forbids employers, unions and employment agencies from discriminating against any person because of his race or religion.

There have been 89 complaints filed under the law. There have been 19 cases filed against eight unions, Kimsay said.

Gibson Heads Senate Today

Sen. Angus Gibson, the genial Junction City Scotsman noted for his tightness with the taxpayer's dollar, was acting president of the Senate Wednesday.

He was appointed to preside for the day by Senate President Eugene E. Marsh, who is acting as governor while Gov. Patterson is in Seattle.

When Marsh announced Gibson's appointment, Gibson rose and asked Marsh: "Couldn't you leave the state for a couple of hours so I could be governor?"

State Building Faces Heavy Cut

Oregon's proposed 20 million dollar program for new buildings at colleges and state institutions faced the prospect Wednesday of being cut in half.

The Joint Legislative Ways and Means Committee will have only 10 millions or less for new buildings, unless the Legislature provides some more tax revenue.

However, Chairman Lee Ohmart, Salem, of the House Tax Committee, told the House that "no revenue measures are before my committee, and none are contemplated."

Rep. Henry Semon, Klamath Falls, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, added that his committee has "no intention of asking for additional revenue, and we'll use most of the money for buildings that is left over from the budget."

The amount left over from the budget will be around 10 millions, but Semon said his committee probably would use a million or two of that for reserve.

The State Board of Higher Education wants almost 10 millions worth of new buildings, and an equal amount is wanted for state institutions.

Bank's Trust Officers Talk

Three trust officers of the United States National Bank of Portland told an audience that filled the main dining room of the Marion Hotel how to pass their estates to their heirs without paying more than the necessary estate taxes.

Speakers were R. M. Alton, vice president and trust officer; LeRoy B. Staver and E. V. Overman, trust officers. One of the suggestions was that married couples with large and fairly large estates take steps to avoid double taxation by reason of one of the couple leaving the property to the other, and the other leaving it to the children upon death.

Jointly owned property that automatically passes to the other spouse works nicely when small amounts of property are involved but leads to costly double inheritance taxation on larger amounts, it was pointed out.

Rex Putnam presided and introduced the speakers. Light refreshments were served after adjournment. The meeting was one of a series being held throughout the state.

Ban All Bills for Increase in Taxes

The house tax committee refreshments were served after adjournment. The meeting was one of a series being held throughout the state.
