Ennis Wait, to repair a one-story dwelling at 443 North Front, $550. Gerald T. Hall, to build a one-story dwelling and garage at 280 Stark, $12,000. Ernest Fletcher, to re-erect a one-story dwelling at 320 South 19th, $224.

Eggs Advance—All egg prices were up a cent here Thursday following similar increases on the Portland produce market. The buying quotations are as follows: AA, 48 cents; large A, 46-52 cents; medium AA, 45 cents; medium A, 43-47 cents; small 39 cents. In the wholesale list, large grade A are quoted generally at 58 cents, the mediums at 53 cents.

Vandals Flay—Vandals destroyed some flower plants on the West Salem branch post office grounds and broke some tile facing on the adjoining building, according to city police reports Thursday.

Bit by Dog—Douglas Morgan, 8, 1745 Fir street, suffered two skin lacerations on the face Wednesday when he was bitten by a dog while at play at school. He was treated by a doctor for the wounds. Owners of the dog were ordered by police to confine it.

Sam Brown House Story—Story of the Sam Brown house, a pioneer dwelling on Highway 99E about 12 miles north of Salem, will be told over station KOAC Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mrs. Sam Brown.

General Extension Classes—The general extension division of the Oregon State System of Higher Education is conducting a class in problems of business management at Salem senior high school. Classes are held each Tuesday night from 7 to 9:45 for a period of 10 weeks with Sallie T. Ford, assistant professor of business administration at the University of Oregon in charge. The class carries three hour graduate or undergraduate credit.

Wanted in Eugene—Louise S. Meyers, arrested here this week for obtaining money under false pretenses is also wanted in Eugene for passing back checks, Salem police were notified Wednesday by Eugene authorities.

Cars Damaged—Cars driven by W. M. Ashcraft, 340 East Lincoln street, and Jan Foulger, 346 West Washington street, collided at the intersection of Fir and Superior streets Wednesday about 5:30 p.m. City police reported considerable damage to both cars but no injuries to persons.

Driver Fined—Willis Atley Hayes, Detroit, was fined $250 in district court Wednesday on a charge of drunk driving. A similar charge against Fred C. Anderson, Idanha, was dismissed. Anderson was arrested on the charge in March of last year.

Street Vacation Rejected—Upon recommendation of County Engineer Hedda Swart, the county court Thursday rejected a petition calling for the vacation of Brandon street from the west line of Clark for a short distance westward. The street is located in Carthage addition of the Keizer district. Swart pointed out that if the vacation was granted the street would revert to the original owner and would be of no benefit to the adjoining property. Closure, too, would interfere with any development of land on Maine avenue.

Under the plan, these public employees would retain 80 percent of their state benefits, plus full federal benefits. That means they will get between 50 and 500 percent more benefits, but at 15 to 30 percent less cost to the employee.

The federal government approved the plan Wednesday.

Those already getting benefits from the state plan would keep on getting them. The second of the bills probably will be passed by the house and sent to the governor Friday.

Vagrancy Charged—Riley Steve Bond was arrested Wednesday on a charge of vagrancy by the Marion county sheriff's office. He told officers that he is AWOL from the army for the third time. The army has been notified. Bond has been living with friends at Brooks for the past six weeks, coming there from California.

$60,000 Cut

Rep. Alva Goodrich of Bend contended that $200 of the appropriation should be eliminated because this sum would be used to send a couple of attorneys to the meeting of the American Bar association. The bill was defended by Senator Merrifield and Rep. Francis Ziegler.

The joint committee went on record favoring the teaching of elementary education in Oregon's three colleges of education as recommended in the so-called Anderson plan. A bill carrying out this proposal was ordered drawn.

Another bill reported out favorably would repeal a 1951 law making it mandatory upon the state civil service commission to study the state employees' salary situation each two years. In event the bill is approved by the legislature, the commission would make such a study only when it was deemed necessary.

Increase in salaries of appointive state officers was approved by the committee and sent to the house.

Ike Defends

4. Declared he does not believe any high government official should accept pay for leave earned but not actually taken. He was commenting on recent acceptance by Truman administration officials, including eight cabinet members, of a total of more than $700,000 in accumulated leave. The money was paid to more than 215 government officials and employes between November 1, 1952, and February 15, 1953.

5. Remarked that he and Secretary of Defense Wilson are trying in every possible way to get defense spending within manageable proportions. Eisenhower added that deficit spending has a desperate effect on the economy and that if military expenditures can be cut without hurting the combat situations in the world they will be cut.

6. Commented that a proposed constitutional amendment sponsored by Sen. Bricker (R., Ohio) would in certain ways restrict his conduct of foreign affairs, but that he does not question the sincerity of Bricker. The amendment is described by Bricker as designed to safeguard rights of the American people and to see that they are not weakened through international organizations such as the United Nations.

7. Said his current talks with French Premier Mayer and other top French government officials would deal with the relative position of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization now as compared to what the hopes had been for NATO achievement. He said they will also concern the French position in Indochina with relation to the capabilities of France in Europe, and the ability of France to do everything she should be able to do to defend herself.

Eisenhower was drawn into direct comment on Sen. McCarthy (R., Wis.) in connection with his remarks about Bohlen.

Bohlen Case Dismissed

The senators had suggested the reporter said, that state department lieutenants of former Secretary of State Acheson had "slipped one over" on him with respect to Bohlen.

The president said that if anyone had put one over on him regarding Bohlen, that they must have found a blind side that he couldn't find himself.

The president was reminded that during the campaign he drew a distinction between McCarthy's methods and his objectives. At that time Eisenhower said in effect that his endorsement of McCarthy for re-election did not constitute approval of his methods of investigation, but that they were in agreement on a need for routing any communists out of government.
