

SIGNS OF SPRING

Signs of spring were on exhibition from the windows of Sigma Chi, men's fraternity Willamette university. In reality it was a rap at the dean of women's regulations to be observed by the so-called gentler sex.

College Men Poke Fun At Ruling on Campus

The blankets suspended from the windows of the upper floor of Sigma Chi, men's frat on the Willamette university campus Friday afternoon were not a sign of spring house cleaning. The activity was nothing more than evidence that the boys were poking a bit of fun at one of the conduct rules issued for the benefit of women students. Commenting that "certain problems arise with the coming of spring", a bulletin issued from the office of Dean of Women Regina Ewalt as quoted in the Collegian, campus publication, prohibits women from lying on blankets with "gentlemen friends" in public places, such as parks, beaches and sun bathing. Another ruling informs the women that they should confine sun bathing to the back yards of their respective organizations and that they refrain from such conduct in parks, front yards and other such public places.
