

Prince Valiant
 IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
 BY HAROLD R. FOSTER

Synopsis: WHEN THE TIME COMES FOR QUEEN ALETA TO RETURN TO THE MISTY ISLES AND SET HER KINGDOM TO RIGHTS, A SMALL MUTINY THREATENS TO UPSET HER PLANS. TILLICUM, HONOR-BOUND TO SERVE ALETA AND PRINCE ARN AS LONG AS LIFE LASTS, REFUSES TO BE LEFT BEHIND.

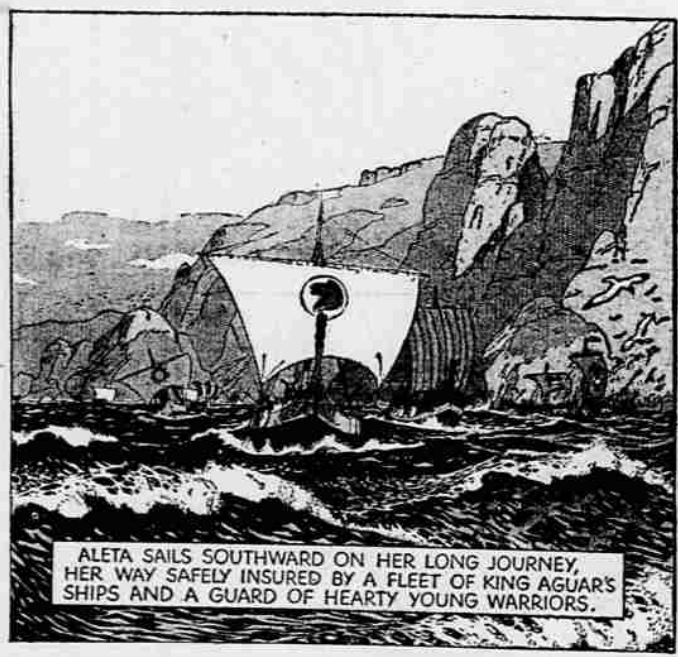

BUT ALETA KNOWS THINGS THAT ONLY A WOMAN WOULD KNOW, AND NOT ONLY POINTS OUT THAT THERE ARE DUTIES ABOVE AND BEYOND HER VOW, BUT ALSO SENDS A SHIP TO SEARCH FOR BOLTA.

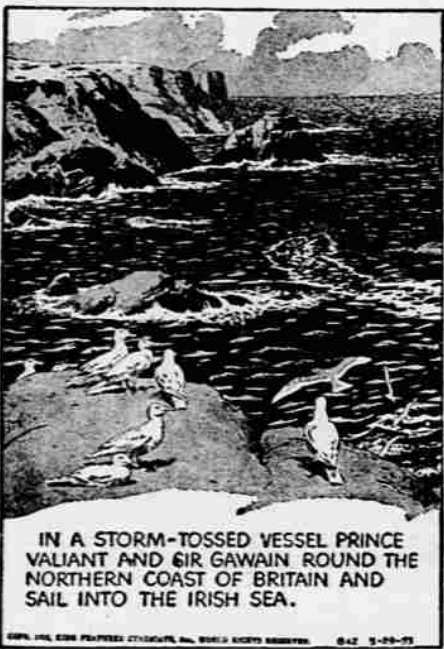

AND THE MESSAGE IS OF SUCH IMPORTANCE THAT BOLTA GIVES UP LOOTING WALLED CITIES AND PLUNDERING FAR LANDS, TO COME FOAMING HOMEWARD.

AND HE ARRIVES IN TIME FOR A GREAT EVENT. HE VOWS TO GIVE UP ROVING AND STAY HOME WITH HIS FIRST-BORN, BUT TILLICUM FINALLY SENDS HIM BACK TO WORK. SHE LOVES HIM DEEPLY, BUT A HUMAN EARTHQUAKE IS NOT COMFORTABLE TO HAVE AROUND THE HOUSE PERMANENTLY.

ALETA SAILS SOUTHWARD ON HER LONG JOURNEY, HER WAY SAFELY INSURED BY A FLEET OF KING AGUAR'S SHIPS AND A GUARD OF HEARTY YOUNG WARRIORS.

IN A STORM-TOSSED VESSEL PRINCE VALIANT AND SIR GAWAIN ROUND THE NORTHERN COAST OF BRITAIN AND SAIL INTO THE IRISH SEA.

HIGH ABOVE TINTAGEL CASTLE, KING ARTHUR PACES THE WIND-SWEPT CLIFF, AND HIS BRAVE HEART IS CLOSE TO DESPAIR.

FOR ONCE MORE THE SAXONS HAVE LANDED IN FORCE, BRINGING A NEW TYPE OF WARFARE-- LIGHT CAVALRY. ALL BRITAIN SEEMS DOOMED!

NEXT WEEK--The Five Kings of Cornwall.
