

Death Closes Fabulous Career of Jim Thorpe

Lomita, Calif. (U.P.) — Funeral arrangements were still pending today for Jim Thorpe, the big Indian who won sports fame that never dimmed during his lifetime, but who tasted bitter disappointment almost from the moment he reached greatness.

Thorpe, 64, died Saturday of a heart attack in his trailer home here, where he had come just a week earlier to rest and fish. He and his wife, Patricia, were eating dinner at the time. It had been more than 40 years since Thorpe started an athletic career, which included exploits in nearly every major sport, that brought him world acclaim.

To many he was the world's top sports figure. King Gustav of Sweden told him in 1912:

"Sir, you are the greatest athlete in the world."

That was perhaps the highest point in his career, coming after he had won both the decathlon and the pentathlon at the Olympic games at Stockholm. But long after he no longer was active, his feats in football, baseball and track and field continued to speak for his greatness. Just three years ago, sports writers' poll named him the greatest male athlete of the half-century. And in 1951, the movie, "Jim Thorpe, All-American," depicted his career.

But only a year after his Olympic showing, he received one of his greatest disappointments. It was discovered that he had played baseball for a small league in 1910 and had received $40 a month. Thorpe admitted it freely, and under the Olympic code he was stripped of his medals and his marks wiped from the record books.

There were other frustrations and hardships in Jim's life, such as when he swung a pick and shovel for a living during the depression. In 1951, sick and broke, he was a charity case in a hospital while he underwent surgery for removal of a lip cancer.

Thorpe was born on a farm near Prague, Okla., in 1888. He won his first game playing football at Carlisle Indian school, setting records there the same year he starred in Olympic games.

John Robert Thorpe

Thorpe's Son at Chemawa Grieves Death of Father

John Robert Thorpe, a shy 15-year-old Chemawa student, today awaited word from Los Angeles as to whether he will be able to attend the funeral of his famous father, Jim Thorpe, who died there late Saturday, aged 64.

The boy is a sophomore at Chemawa, where he has been for five years. Prior to coming here he spent three years at an Indian school at Pawnee, Okla. He expects to be here until he finishes high school.

John plays football, basketball and baseball. He has been troubled by asthma but is outgrowing it. His brother Richard left Chemawa two years ago and is now in the navy stationed at San Diego. Two older brothers are in Korea.

John last saw his father in Los Angeles last summer. The elder Thorpe has never been here. The boy is wondering if the family will now get the Olympic trophies his father won in 1912 but which were later taken from him when it was learned he had played professional baseball in ignorance of the fact that it was forbidden.

The Thorpe boy is a quiet, reserved youngster who volunteered no information but answered all questions readily.

East All-Stars Defeat West Hoopers, 72-54

New York (AP) — Eastern college all star turned on the steam in the second half to defeat a picked team of West-erners 72-54 in the Herald Tribune's seventh annual charity basketball game in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The West, led by All-American Bob Houbregs of Washington, matched the east basket-for-basket in the closely fought first half but faded in the final periods in the face of an attack by Larry Hennessey of Villanova and Seton Hall's Richie Regan.

Houbregs' tap-in with 40 seconds left in the first half put the West out in front 31-30 at the intermission.

Hennessey, Regan and another All-American, Walter Duke of Seton Hall, started connecting for the East in the third period. Regan poured in 11 points and the quarter ended with the West trailing 51-44.

Houbregs topped the scoring with 17 points for the evening. Teammates Joe Cipriano of Washington and Chet Noe of Oregon dropped in six and three points respectively.

Regan was voted the game's outstanding player. The game was played for the Herald Tribune's Fresh Air Fund. The win gave the East a 4-3 edge in the annual series.

Plans are nearing completion for presentation of the third annual Willamette relays at McCulloch stadium on Saturday afternoon, April 4.

The huge cinder field, under direction of Ted Ogdahl, is scheduled to start at 1 o'clock sharp and will finish at 5:45—meaning that a field of over 1500 prep and college athletes will run through the jam-packed schedule in less than five hours.

Ogdahl reports 109 high schools have entered to date plus 12 colleges. More entries are expected by the deadline which falls on Tuesday midnight, March 31.

The colorful track classic, recognized as the largest in the entire northwest, will be supervised by some 70 officials. Admission to the event is 50 cents for students and 90 cents for adults.
