

BPA Making Use of Steam

Portland (AP) — The Bonneville Power Administration reported Monday it was using steam generators to maintain the flow of interruptible power to Pacific Northwest industries.

Herschel Jones, assistant manager of BPA, explained that the levels of reservoirs behind the region's power dams had fallen to a point where hydro-electric generators could not operate full capacity.

That means the interruptible power—power which is bought with the understanding it can be curtailed in time of shortage—would have to be cut off from steam generators put into operation. It was decided to use the generators during hours of peak use with the interruptible power customers paying the entire cost.

Jones said the situation would improve by May when the reservoirs begin to rise from the mountain snow melt.

Young Oregon GOP Hits McCarthyism

Taft, Ore. (AP)—Tactics used by Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R., Wis., in Senate investigations, were criticized Sunday by Oregon Young Republicans.

The organization condemned "McCarthyism" and criticized the current congressional investigation of education.

The resolution said the organization was opposed to "negative loyalty oaths as a violation of the personal freedom of well-qualified teachers."

Gov. Paul Patterson in a panel discussion with State Treasurer Sig Unander and Secretary of State Earl Newbry said he opposed lowering the voting age to 18. He said being old enough to be in the army didn't necessarily being old enough to vote wisely. Young men make good soldiers because they take orders readily, he said. He added they might also take orders readily at election time.

Newbry said the legislature should refer to the voters a proposal for a state bonus to veterans of the Korean war.

Tax Warning In Polk County

Dallas — "A word of warning pays off" states Polk County Sheriff and Tax Collector Tony Neufeldt.

Thursday, all persons who owe delinquent taxes in the county were warned by Sheriff Neufeldt, and District Attorney Walter W. Foster that action was being initiated to collect all taxed owed on both real and personal property. The total amount of delinquent taxes owed by the county is approximately $150,000.

The first step in the collection campaign will be directed toward delinquent personal property taxes. Notification is being sent to all persons owing delinquent taxes, and they will be given the opportunity to pay the sum owed before the publication of a listing of all tax delinquencies in the county.

In the event any person owing personal property taxes and possessing real estate within Polk county does not make payment in full, the personal property taxes owed will be charged against such real property and the tax liens foreclosed.

It is urged that all persons owing such delinquent taxes make payment immediately to avoid the publication of their names on the delinquency lists being prepared at present.

According to Sheriff Neufeldt, the warning is bearing fruit, because in the first two days of the drive more than $1500 in delinquent taxes has been paid.

Welfare Costs Up in Linn Co.

Albany — Public welfare recipients in Linn county will receive $988,145 during the fiscal year starting July 1, 1953, if the budget of the county welfare department is approved as compiled.

Mrs. Luellie McBride, Linn county public welfare administrator, said Friday that this is an increase of $49,800 over the 1952-53 budget, but that the current funds available proved inadequate and it was necessary to procure additional funds from the county court during the present quarter.

Of the overall budget, the county's real property taxpayers will be called upon to shoulder about a third of the load or $180,723, Mrs. McBride said. The rest is derived from state and federal government sources.

The increase has been made necessary, said Mrs. McBride, largely because of the let-down in employment during the winter and because of newly arrived families who had expended their resources and were forced to fall back on public assistance, due also to the unfavorable employment situation.

Raises were noted in each of the categories of the welfare aid.
