Northwestern 4th Big Ten School to Vote Against Pact

Evanston, Ill. (U.R) - The Northwestern University faculty committee on ath-letics has decided to vote against renewal of the Rose Bowl pact with the Pacific Coast Conference.

The announcement made last night brings to four the number of Big Ten schools who have said they will vote to reject renewal at the next meeting of the Big Ten Conference. Illinois and Ohio State favor continuing the agreement.

Indiana, Iowa, Purdue and Michigan have not yet an-nounced definite action on the Rose Bowl proposal, but Purdue may come to a de-cision today.

A Me vote would block another agreement between the two conferences, with a majority needed to approve

F. George Sculberger, chairman of the Northwestern committee, said the vote for rejection yesterday was vallis - Oregon State's potentially-strong baseball team returned home Monday, after a successful five game exhibition jaunt into California, where the Beavers won three and lost two against stiff opposition.

Oregon State Team Back; Plays Willamette Thursday

While on the pre-season trip, Coach Ralph Coleman's men split a two-game series with Fresno State, lost a single con-test to California and whipped both San Jose State and Grant Tech of Sacramento.

The Beavers resume action this week with three more ex-hibition games. Willamette plays here on Thursday, the Beavers meet Oregon at Eu-gene on Friday and entertain Lewis & Clark here Saturday. Northern Division action doesn't get underway until April 17.

Coleman appeared well pleased with his club's per-formance in California and was especially happy with the work of his four-man pitching staff, Norb Wellman

Premo team Saturday, and Dailey Brem, Corky Cole-man and Jim Nierman all did well. Wellman and Brem are mainstay holdovers from last year, but Coleman and Nierman are pitching their first varsity ball.

Only had luck on the trip was the costly injury to Danny Johnston, regular second-baseman, in the game at Berkeley. Johnston collided with Outfielder Bud Shirtcliff going after a fly ball and suffered a slight anneusement. alight concussion. Latest re-ports from the California cam-pus hospital Monday indicated that Johnston would remain under observation for several more days. He suffered no serious consequences as the result of the concussion, but because of other complications was forced to remain a while Taking Johnston's spot in the lineup has been Doug Wray, sophomore from The Dallas, Johnston may be lost to the Beavers until confer-ence competition starts.

Coleman is still searching for a first-line left fielder. Shirteliff has the centerfield position all sewed up and Jim Ruggles is looking good in right, but the Beavers need more consistency in the other outfield berth. Right now, it's still a toss-up, with Jim Jenks, Jack Pinion, Jim Withrow and Stan Hays the leading contend-ers for the job.

Willie Could Do It Despite the fact that Eugene's Jackie Puscus scored a convincing victory over Willard "Battling" Nelson of Salem team posted a score of Salem in the Cherrian-sponsored amateur boxing card at the armory last week, Nelson has a good chance of winning the Oregon state lightweight title in Portland Wedner and Gordon Hull.

Puscus, who has been fighting in the lightweight divi-sion, will probably join the featherweight ranks for the state AAU boxing tournament Wednesday.

Dyer Has Good Chance, Too

Virgil Dyer, another bright Salem prospect, is in the flyweight division. Salem could wind up with two state champs Wednesday. Nelson and Dyer are both capable of winning the titles in their respective weights. Not an Olympic Year

The AAU will crown state champions in only eight weights this year, compared to 10 last year. The weight classes were broken down into 10 divisions last year to correspond with Olympic weights. The 1952 Oregon AAU championships were tryouts for the United States Olympic team.
