

Food Service Evidence Needed for Drink OK

Established food service must be in evidence before the Oregon liquor control commission will grant Dispenser A or B licenses to sell liquor by the glass.

The commission emphasizes this, as the law requires that food be cooked and served in commercial establishments which are granted the new privilege. To allow time for pre-licensing investigation and publication of necessary regulations, no dispenser licenses will become effective prior to May 4.

The number of dispenser licenses which may be issued is limited to 760, in accordance with the legal limitation of one license per 2,000 population. The majority of applications now is coming from establishments which hold licenses allowing mixing and serving of alcoholic liquor from customers' bottles. However, commission policy will be to grant dispenser licenses not only to some of these establishments, but also to premises which have not had the mixed drink privilege, commission Chairman W. A. Spangler stated, so that liquor by the drink will be available to different groups of society.

License applications should be made on forms obtainable from the OLCC Portland office at 2505 S.E. Eleventh avenue or from the Salem office in the state highway building. Each application requires that the applicant be endorsed by the local governing body.

The distilled liquor control act specifies that Dispenser licenses furnish a $1,000 to $5,000 bond.

Corn Squeezin's Seized by Cops

Lebanon — Liquor commission agents state that a large raiding party Sunday night confiscated two stills, two batches of mash and 12 gallons of moonshine whiskey in a Holley residence in the foothill country.

Arrested for possession of stills and moonshine liquor were Cortez Gaskey in whose home the stills were found, and Jack Thorpe of Waterloo. They were fined $350 each in an Albany court Monday.

The raiding party was headed by liquor agents and included two carloads of state police, the entire Linn county sheriff's department of officers, and off-duty Lebanon police.

Arresting officers said the two men were surprised in the act of dismantling the still equipment in a back room of the Gaskey home.

Equipment included a copper vat of approximately 40-gallon capacity, a copper wash boiler, oil stove, large vat, coils and other necessary apparatus for producing liquor.

This is the third illicit still to be captured by police in Linn county during the past three years. Previous finds included one found in a chicken coop at Sodaville, and another in the southern part of the county near Harrisburg.

Bill for Gates At Crossings

Installation of electrically operated safety gates at all railroad crossings in cities of between 25,000 and 100,000 where 11 or more accidents have occurred in a five year period, is required in a bill introduced in the house by Rep. Mark Hatfield of Marion county.

The bill has been referred to the committee on commerce and utilities.

Should the bill become law it would require railroads to install three such gates in Salem, one at 12th and State streets; another at 12th and Mission, and the third at Trade and South Commercial.

Under the present law the commissioner of public utilities is empowered to order installation of gates or other safety devices but under Hatfield's bill the installation would be compulsory.

Gas Company Asks Rate Hike

An increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of heavy fuel oil announced recently by major oil companies, one of which supplies Portland Gas & Coke company, resulted in the gas company filing a letter with the Public Utilities commission in Salem Monday seeking slight upward revision of gas rates.

The increase amounts to 2.08 cents per 1000 cubic feet of gas used and would apply uniformly to all customers on all rate schedules, the letter stated. This would amount to an increase of approximately 2 per cent for all customers. A recent increase in furnace oil prices amounted to a rise of approximately 15 per cent for consumers in this area.

Citing examples of the effect on individual customers, gas company officials said the typical customer using gas for cooking and water heating would have to pay approximately 9 cents more a month. The increase for the average customer using gas for house heating, cooking and water heating would amount to about $4.25 a year.

Charles H. Heltzel, state public utilities commissioner, has set April 9 as date for a hearing on the application of the Portland Gas & Coke company.

Reds Teach Japanese Kids to Hate America

Tokyo 4/3 — Japanese children repatriated last week from Communist China were taught by the Chinese Communists to hate America.

Appearing on a radio round table discussion last night, a group of children gave convincing proof that the Communists are indoctrinating the people of Asia against the United States.

"I don't like the United States because of its imperialistic policy" a third-grader said.

Asked how he arrived at such a conclusion, the boy answered, "my teachers taught me to think that way."
