AT UO New Term Underway On Campus

By ANN CARSON (Capital Journal Correspondent)
University of Oregon, Eugene (Special)—Spring term at University of Oregon started out in a burst of rain; but sun has finally decided to beat old man winter out of the way and show itself.

Thinking about nice weather, brings us, in a roundabout way, to the Millrace. Big plans are in the offing to drain and clean out the millrace bed, so that the water can be sent through at a faster speed than it has been going up to date. All of the Millrace houses are planning a big work party to perform the "miracle of the millrace." There are now ten houses located on the millrace, two women's organizations and eight men's organizations.

Salem students from these houses who will be knee-deep in mud the day of the clean-up are: Joyce Armstrong, Marjorie Becke, Ann Carson, Mary Sundet, Sharon Heider, Marcia Webb and Norma Stewart; for the men there will be Dick Buren, Wade Carter, Larry Hobart, Lynn Jensen, Larry Kleinsmith, Bill Paulus, Chandler Sogge, John Templeton, Jim Elliot, Ed Meyers, and Bob Hazel. Anyone is welcome, however, to come and add his bit to this project.

We can see about every type of wearing apparel on campus from long winter coats to light cottons for the women and wool shirts and jackets to T-shirts for the men. Someone is going to catch a cold!

Oregon took some honors during the vacation. Our debaters won top honors at the 29th annual Pacific Forensic league tournament held at the University of Southern California.

Winding up the basketball season, 10 varsity letters were handed out to the players of the Oregon team. Keith Farnam was one of the 10.

New staff members who will work on radio station KWAX spring term have been announced by the station manager and Ed Meyers of Salem is sports director.

Next week-end a large number of the houses are having their dances, and decorations are already underway for a good time. Spring term dances are usually a lot more fun because you aren't always dodging mud puddles or trying to keep your formals out of "drips." Costume dances are
