

Milk Producers No Guinea Pig

Washington (AP) — The National Milk Producers Federation told a government conference Thursday that it would oppose making the dairy industry a "guinea pig" for trial of a "self-help" program for dealing with surplus butter, cheese and other products.

The federation offered, however, to join other segments of agriculture on an equal basis in developing and carrying out farm price stabilization programs requiring less government aid than is provided at present.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has told the dairy industry it must assume greater responsibility in dealing with its problems.

The Federation's position was given in a statement by Russell S. Waltz of Seattle, general manager of the United Dairy-men's Association and spokesman for the National Milk Organization.

Moving Is Shocking

"It takes a lot of living in a house to make a home" . . . applies to plants as well as people.

Time and care are both required to establish plant material in a new garden.

Whether it is a hardy shrub removed from the nursery or a tender seedling from a seed flat, there is always a certain amount of transplant shock involved that may retard growth.

Therefore it is of paramount importance that this shock be reduced to a minimum by careful handling and providing the conditions favorable to vigorous growth.

Transplant shock is greatly reduced by "watering in" with an ample supply of BOOSTER POWDER. . . one tablespoon per gallon of water applied both to the roots and on the leaves at time of planting.

BOOSTER POWDER contains all the plant foods required for sturdy, robust health. It is quickly utilized by the plant, and sustains growth while the plant is becoming established in its new home.

New Polio Vaccine Not Yet Easily Available

Chicago (AP) — The general public may not get any of the new, highly promising but still experimental polio vaccine before 1955 at least.

A group of the nation's top medical leaders, including the heads of the American Medical Association and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, have urged that limited but expanding studies be carried out the remainder of 1953 and in 1954 to test the safety and effectiveness of the preparation.

This was disclosed Friday by Dr. Thomas M. Rivers, New York, director of the hospital for the Rockefeller Institute for medical research, in a letter to the editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

At the same time, the AMA Journal said in an editorial that while vaccine of the type tested has shown "most promising" results "research of this type cannot be hastened." The Journal added:

"The ultimate goal requires a willingness to take cautious, step-by-step advances. Each new step should be taken only after establishing the wisdom of the preceding one.

"With the approach of the polio season, there is danger that many will advocate larger and faster steps."

Dr. John E. Salk, 28, virus researcher at the University of Pittsburgh, announced development of the new mineral oil-type vaccine on March 26.

In preliminary tests, he said, the vaccine gave 90 persons protection against all three types of viruses that cause human polio and none of the patients suffered any ill effects.

Dr. Rivers said the medical representatives made their recommendations after further limited step-by-step evaluation after hearing from Dr. Salk a detailed account of his studies to date.

Promotions Given in State Civil Service

State Civil Service Director James M. Clinton has announced two major personnel changes in his office staff which were effective April 1.

Wesley L. Voorhees was promoted to assistant classification and pay supervisor. Voorhees, who is married and has two children, joined the commission in June, 1950. He is a graduate of Lewis and Clark college and has one year of graduate study in psychology at Portland university. He succeeded Robert Jones who has transferred to the Industrial Accident Commission. He is 31.

Alfred H. Blogg has taken over the duties of assistant examination supervisor. Blogg is from Denver, Colorado, where he has had over four years of examining experience with the Colorado State Civil Service Commission. He holds both a bachelor's and a master's degree from the University of Denver. Originally from Illinois, Blogg went to Denver after World War II. He is 34, married, and has two children.

TELE-VIEWS Radio-Television

By DAVE BLACKMER

Television Association of Salem is really throwing a big program for the public the night of April 6, in the Senator hotel, Capital Room.

Starting at 7:00 p.m. the meeting and TV Talent Show will have Russ Olson, chief engineer and head man at Television station KPTV as the guest speaker.

Jan Webster, public relation director for KPTV will round out the speaking chores.

In addition to these two top speakers, the Television Assn. of Salem has secured Crosley Manufacturing Mobile Television unit for that night.

The Crosley firm has over $160,000 invested in this project. Equipped with two television cameras valued at $30,000 each the mobile unit is manned by seven men. They telecast everything from football, games to blood drives . . . In this case at the Television Association meeting they will telecast the people attending the meeting. Maybe Salem has some TV stars and this is a sure way to discover them.

Art Elgan is chief engineer of the unit and he will handle the television chores.

This is the only public appearance the unit will make in Salem. Everyone is welcome to the show, however there are only a limited number of tickets available so call Lew Mitchell, proxy of the Assn. to have yours set aside. Tickets will only be held for a short time, in view of the fact of the large demand for them.

YOURS FOR THE TELE-VIEWING FRIDAY

Cavalade of Sports at 7. Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia, Pa., vs. Dave Davy, Seattle, 10-round bout, heavyweights.

The Big Story at 9. Wesley Addy portrays Reporter Edgar E. Frady of the Chicago Sun-Times. Frady helped police track down the man who shot a policeman.

Dennis Day Show at 9:30. Dennis gets the disappointment of his life when he meets a "beauty" contest winner. Informed that "Miss Mount Idy" (Irene Ryan) recent winner of a beauty contest is coming to town, Dennis envisions a glamorous young lady, and makes elaborate plans to entertain her.

Favorite Story at 10:30. "The Strange Mr. Bartleby." John Laurie and Norman Shelley. Story, set in London in 1870's, is about the search for Stephen Zeane who has disappeared 19 years before.
