

'Upper-Room Chapel' to Serve Men of All Faiths

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—It is a strange "upper room, a room with reminders of the one in which 12 men sat down for the last time with Christ many years ago.

Friday as Christians commemorate those final hours of Christ, the building of the unusual room is complete.

Called the "Upper Room Chapel" and part of a new million dollar evangelism building, it is to be formally dedicated Tuesday as a shrine where men of all faiths may kneel and recall the sad "Good Friday" of old.

Officials of the Methodist church, which constructed the symbol-strewn, two-story structure, said the upstairs chapel is the only one of its kind in its effort to recapture the mood of Christ's last hours.

Behind the altar on the wall of the chapel hangs a huge, unique wood carving of "The Last Supper," taken from Da Vinci's painting and 14 months in the making by Italian Sculptor Ernest Pellegrini and 50 helpers.

And within the chapel the room itself is like the one shown in the portrayal. There in the center of the floor, is the rough, wooden table, like the one at which the 12 supped, where Jesus said, "One of you shall betray me," and where they asked nervously, "Lord, is it I?"

There are the same four tapestries on each wall, the same ceiling, the same type of floor.

There is the dish, recalling His words, "Take, eat, this is My Body." And the chalice—"Drink ye all of it. For this is My blood of the New Testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

All about on wood furnishings, and the antique fixtures of the chapel are embossed symbols and scenes: Of Jesus in Gethsemane, where He prayed while His disciples dozed, and where in the moments before the mob came He told them, "Behold, the hour is at hand. Thus it must be."

Of the trial, at which Jesus was accused of "perverting the nation" and blasphemy for "saying He is Christ the King," of the mob shouting at Pontius Pilate, "Let Him be crucified!"

Of Jesus on the way to Golgotha, struck and spit on by the mob, of the nails that pierced His hands, the cross the sponge of vinegar pushed into His face, of the crown of thorns He wore on that day when the world turned dark, and He said:

"It is finished."

Four Deacons Freed From Suit Liability

Hood River (AP)—Circuit Judge Malcolm W. Wilkinson declared a non-suit in the case of four deacons of First Baptist church here yesterday, dropping them as defendants in an assault and battery case brought by Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Mark Delepine.

But the suit was expected to continue against five other deacons also named defendants in the suit.

The four deacons were dropped from the suit on motions by the defendants' attorneys. They were Curtis Copeland, Elmer Worthen, Fred James and Herb Repp.

Pet Stoges Get Revenue Posts

Washington (AP)—Sen. Williams (R., Del.) charged Friday that President Truman's 1952 reorganization of the Internal Revenue Bureau, advertised as a plan to take political patronage out of the tax-collecting service, in fact put it under "pet stoges."

He told the senate that former Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder and other democratic administration officials "violated their promise" to fill the bureau's key jobs through competitive civil service examinations, and gave some to "discredited officials."

"The new deal administration," Williams declared, "was determined to leave behind a tax-collecting agency controlled by its own pet stoges."

Former President Truman sent the reorganization plan to congress last year in the wake of many disclosures of wrong doing among the tax gatherers. Some of the misdeeds had been exposed by Williams himself in senate speeches.

Scholarship to Scarborough

The Stanley Stemmer Beaubaire scholarship in journalism at Stanford university has been awarded to Donald Scarborough, Willamette university senior.

Scarborough, a Woodburn resident, is editor of the Collegian, campus weekly which received an All-American rating by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The Beaubaire scholarship, established in 1949, carries a monetary award of $1200 and is given annually to a student specializing in journalism.

Scarborough is majoring in journalism and history at Willamette and has maintained a 3.5 cumulative grade point average. He studied four months in the nation's capital last year as a participant in the Washington semester plan at American university. The following summer he worked as a classification intern at the District of Columbia jail.

Others in the induction group are George A. Peters, Wayne Arthur Steffen, Douglas Dean Wallis, Gary Leroy Carter and Richard Lee Bye, all of Silverton; Percy Eugene McCarthy and Albert Elmer Hansen, from Woodburn; Charles Earl Florer and Gerald Richard Harvey of Gervais; Wayne Allen Trowbridge, Aurora; Everett Willis Hatch, Aumsville; William Charles Davies of Jefferson; Duane Everett Bradley, Sublimity; Howard Dale Boswell, Lenard Eugene Manning and Wallace John Wipper, all of Turner; Darrel Dean Harold of Corvallis; Frederick T. Guernsey Show Next June 13

The Willamette Valley Guernsey Spring show will be held Saturday, June 13 at the State Fairgrounds. All Guernsey breeders have been asked to exhibit their stock, reports Frank Peopping, Mt. Angel, president of the sponsoring Marion-Polk Guernsey club.

Classes include 4-H, FFA and adult breeders in the one day show, aimed to incorporate a day of visiting and comparing cattle.

The 1952 show saw Lester Landcaster of Greysmarsh farms in Washington judge nearly 90 head of cows and young stock. Animals exhibited came as far as Klamath Falls.

Additional information may be obtained from Peopping or T. R. Hobart, Guernsey club secretary, Box 111, Salem.

Spring Spraying Program Due

The spring spray and dust program is very important for effective disease and insect control in fruit trees, reminds D. L. Rasmussen, county extension agent.

Both quality and quantity of this season's fruit crop are dependent upon effective pest control at this season.

Prune growers have already been warned to apply DDT sprays or dusts for thrips control. Although all orchards may not have to be treated, growers should examine fruit buds for a thrips count during the next few days.

Thrips are about 1/20th inch long and about as wide as a pencil line.

While spraying or dusting may not be necessary in all prune orchards, the opposite is true for cherry orchards. Brown rot blossom blight and which require a preventive spray or dust p. am. Successful growers assume these pests are a yearly problem and carry out a control program.

Does Your Heart Plead For Rest?

By J. H. Willett

A shortness of breath, the general feeling of tiredness, dizzy spells now and then, or nervous twitches you never noticed before . . . these are all signs perhaps that you are overtaxing your heart.

No better way of detecting heart trouble, or the signs that foretell trouble in the near future, than an examination by your physician.

Once a year checkups should be routine with every person, young or old.

Never consider anything but the best in medicines . . . get a prescription from your doctor . . . have it filled by a trusted druggist.
