

Local Paragraphs

Would Save Tree—Roy Porter, living south of Aumville on county road 948, asks that a tree in front of his place be saved if at all possible in connection with the proposed widening of the road. The road is to be widened through the contribution of five feet of right of way on each side by property owners. Commissioner E. L. Rogers expressed the belief that it would not be necessary to destroy the tree.

Parole Tests Coming—The State Civil Service Commission is in immediate need of applications for a parole officer examination which will be given early in May. The last filing date for application is April 17. Applicants should be college graduates with one year of experience in parole work or a related field. Suitable experience may be substituted for two years of the required college. The starting pay is $296 a month.

A special service for baptism of children will also be offered at these hours. Following Sunrise service at McCulloch stadium an Easter breakfast for junior and high school members of the church. Rev. Paul N. Poling's Easter sermon will be "The Arisen One."

U.S. Rejects

American officials here, asked about the news, said the change of front on the embassy matter came about 10 days ago. But they said the response from the United States was that this country prefers to go ahead with the planned move to a new and sturdier building even though it is away from the center of town.

In reversing stand on the embassy matter the new Malenkov regime was making at least a show of friendliness. It was associated in Moscow with a series of other recent conciliatory gestures.

Pioneer Grave Care

Silverton—C. H. Bowen is chairman of the group calling a meeting with arrangements made for the use of Bethany schoolhouse, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, April 7, to discuss the plans for taking better care of the graves of Oregon pioneers.

Many of the graves are in disgraceful condition, members of the committee reported. The object of the session will be mainly to form an organization with the possibility of inducing Marion county to lend a hand with the project that will insure permanent care of the graves.

Those particularly interested in Bethany cemetery may gain further information by writing Bethany Cemetery Association, Box 140, Silverton, Oregon.

Union Oil Building $25,000 Plant Here

The Union Oil company's new district office and marketing station is under construction at 1855 Silverton road, W. S. Christopher, district sales manager, said today, involving an investment of approximately $25,000. Fifteen thousand was spent last year modernizing the pumps at the plant. Completion is expected within 60 days.

Union is the only oil company with district offices here, Christopher said. The territory was spent last year modernizing the pumps at the plant. Completion is expected within 60 days.

Uniform

Prison officials were making a close check of the convicts Saturday, in an effort to determine if any are missing. "There is some possibility that a convict was mixed up in this," Capt. Howard said of the guard's disappearance.

Williams is described as 40 years of age, 5-feet 9-inches tall, weighing 145 pounds, with blue eyes and sandy hair. When he left for the prison Friday night, he was driving a bright blue 1942 Dodge sedan, license number 172-252.

Williams' uniform was found by Eric Gustafson of Salem who was driving to McCoy in Polk county at the time.

The uniform and wallet were lying in plain sight alongside the highway, and in the wallet were identification cards, with Williams' name showing that he was employed at the prison.

Gustafson immediately called Captain of Guards Ellsworth Herder and Herder at once checked and found Williams had not reported last night. Herder called State Police asking that a check be made at Williams' home. His wife said he had left as usual for the prison about 8 last night.

"Williams served as a warrant officer in the Army," Captain Herder said today, "and had an honorable discharge. He is a clean-cut kind of man, not addicted to liquor or other bad habits and has a fine reputation as a guard here at the prison."

Capitol Baptist Easter Services

Sunday morning services at Capitol Baptist church will be built around the theme of the resurrection and Rev. James E. Frost's sermon will be based on the subject "Our Living Lord."

Special music under the direction of W. J. Bishop will be included in the program and the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed in connection with the morning worship service.

The evening topic of the pastor will be "Requirements for Revival." This will be one of the preparation messages for the church revival beginning April 15. Nolan M. Kennedy of Amarillo, Tex., will be the principal speaker during the series.

Rev. Frost has been conducting a series of meetings at the First Baptist church in Madras.

To Install Officers—Rotana club, women's service group, will install new officers Monday evening at a banquet at the Colonial House, the event set for 6:45 o'clock. Mrs. Mary Booth of Helena, Mont., national Rotana president, is to be here as installing officer. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Paul Geddes of Roseburg, who is here during the legislature with her husband, State Senator Geddes. Mrs. Frank Jackson is the incoming president for Rotana.

About 28,000 U. S. people are killed each year in home accidents.

Order Issued For SP Spur

Charles H. Meltzel, state utilities commissioner, issued an order Friday permitting the Southern Pacific company to construct a spur track at grade across a part of Chemeketa street.

The spur is for the purpose of giving rail service to the warehouse of Keith Brown Lumber company. The spur will take off from an existing spur on and along Chemeketa street.

Because of the nature of the installation, says the order, it is impossible to install warning devices. It is noted, however, that the average volume of vehicular traffic over the crossing is about 350 cars a day. Train movements over the crossing will be for switching only and at slow speeds.

The order requires that the crossing be paved to conform to the surface of the surrounding street.

Legislators

5. Increased unemployment and industrial accident benefits. No action yet.

6. The civil rights bill. Passed by the Senate.

7. The bill to allow appeals from the Hydroelectric Commission. Defeated once by the House, it now is back in House committee on reconsideration.

8. The 20 million dollar program for new college and institutional buildings. A seven-man building committee started work on it Friday.

9. Prison bills. No action taken yet on the prison budget because of the new ward being appointed only last Tuesday. Bills to have a full-time parole board and state reformatory haven't received any consideration.

10. High salaries. The pay boost for elected state officials now is through both Houses, but no final action has been taken on raises for other officials.

Accountant Dies At Auto Wheel

Mill City—Lee Chambers, 31, accountant, 241 N. Cottage St., Salem, died of a heart attack Friday morning, after parking his automobile and turning off the ignition switch in front of the Knowles body and fender shop.

Dr. Jack Reid, who was called to the scene, pronounced the man dead. He was found slumped over the wheel by Mrs. Knowles with whom he was scheduled to discuss a bookkeeping account.

Chambers was employed by W. N. Simmons, public accountant, of Stayton, and recently was a student at Salem.

The body was taken first to the Weddle Funeral Home at Stayton and then to the Fortmiller-Fredrickson chapel at Albany.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at Albany. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Vivian Thompson Chambers; a step-daughter, Judith Ann Thompson, both of Salem; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Chambers; two brothers, Ralph and Bert Chambers; and a sister, Mrs. Dick Christman, all of Albany.

Senate Votes

Welfare commission failed, and an appeal to former Governor Douglas McKay was referred to the state welfare commission where it was also denied.

"The big brass in Portland said 'no' and the big brass in our county said 'no,'" he declared "and so far as I know this couple is still on the welfare list."

Although he voted for the bill Senator Paul Geddes told the senate that he did not think the bill handled the situation properly. Geddes said that he would much prefer a statute that would allow citizens to obtain information on specific cases.

Geddes' stand was supported by Senator Dean Bryson, who voted against the bill.

No demonstration in any state in the union shows that allowing public inspection of relief rolls would reduce the case load has been shown, according to Senator Richard Neuberger.

"Much has been said about the decline in the relief rolls of Indiana after a similar law was enacted," he said. "But the facts, revealed by studies, are that the decline came at a time of full employment and in addition the decline in states without the law were greater than those recorded in Indiana."

Neuberger objected to the emergency clause and attempted to return the bill to the committee with specific instructions to remove the clause, but his motion was voted down.

Senator Dean Walker said that Oregon stood sixth high in the amount of benefits given to welfare recipients. He urged the senate to pass the bill in order to give the plan a trial for two years.

Senators voting against the bill were S. Eugene Allen, Portland; Phil Brady, Portland; Dean Bryson, Portland; Truman A. Chase, Eugene; Holmes, Pat Longman, Portland; John C. Merrifield, Portland; and Richard L. Neuberger, Portland.

After passing this bill the senate also passed the relative responsibility bill with only Senators Holmes and Neuberger voting against it.

This bill places a greater responsibility on relatives for support of persons in need, and provides a schedule of payments required to be paid by relatives who are found to be financially able to make such payments.

This bill would also let the welfare commission get state tax records to discover the earnings of the relatives, and would permit the commission to require payments.

Brain Washing Torture Used by Reds on POW

Washington (AP)—Communists "brain washing," a subtle torture that makes a man spout a lie and think it's the truth.

Official quarters here were giving increasingly serious study to this possibility as prospects brighten for actual agreement on an armistice in Korea.

The big stumbling block to a truce agreement has been United Nations' refusal to force prisoners of war to go back to their homes. But the Communists, in line with Kremlin peace overtures, have indicated they might agree to some sort of voluntary repatriation.

It would be a feather in the cap of Red propagandists in the wake of an armistice, Americans they hold in China would tell the world they prefer to remain under Red rule.

That's where "brain washing" comes in.

John D. Hayes, a Presbyterian missionary who returned to the U. S. recently after 10 months' imprisonment by the Chinese Reds, has told about his experience with this technique.

In a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report, Hayes said constant questioning and innumerable planted germs of ideas in his mind until eventually he was made to believe he was a spy.

His 75 days before a Red court, he said, made it "difficult to distinguish between what the court has suggested and what one had known to be the facts."
