Three Join Cattle Club

Robert L. Barnes, James G. Phillips, both of Silverton, and L. L. Lee of Salem, have been named members of The American Jersey Cattle club. These men are local breeders of registered Jersey cattle.

The recent applications of Barnes, Phillips, and Lee for membership were approved by the club's board of directors at their last meeting. Requirements for membership specify that an applicant must be an owner of Jersey cattle and be a careful and reliable breeder. The applications of each of these men were endorsed by at least five members of the club. The memberships give them the privilege of voting in the organization's affairs. They are also entitled to special membership fees when transacting business with it. The American Jersey Cattle club is America's oldest dairy breed registry organization. It was organized in 1868 and ever since has preserved the records and improved and promoted the Jersey breed. Its national headquarters is in Columbus.
