Row Over Note In Albany Court

Albany—Alleging that they owe the plaintiff nothing, Robert and Lorena Chambers have filed in circuit court here an answer to the complaint of W. T. Grier, doing business as Valley Credit Service claiming the defendants owe $2,274.58.

The defendants assert that they gave to Glen and June Coshaw a promissory note for $2500 in 1947 and were not in arrears up to Feb. 28, when they arranged for a new contract on the balance due.

At that time, the defendants assert, they owed only $1,593.83, but after they had signed the contract they noticed that the amount stated as due was $3500, the original amount.

They tried to get the Co-shaws to return the contract to them for correction, the defendants aver, but were refused, the Co-shaws offering instead to accept a new $3500 note on which payments already made would be credited. After that the Chambers allege, they kept on making the agreed payments and cleared up the obligation entirely May 3, 1950. Meanwhile the note had been turned over by the Co-shaws to Valley Credit Service for collection.

The information was released Thursday by Don Pritchett, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce industrial development committee.

Production will include timber of all kinds—beams, arches, laminated material, etc. General and sales offices will be maintained in Portland.

The new corporation is headed by former executives of Timber Structures, which has offices in Portland and fabricating plants in several other points. President is W. J. Van Arman, former Timber Structures president, and vice president is Andy E. Toth, until recently holding the same position with Timber Structures, also at Portland.

It was not announced how many will be employed but it will be a "substantial operation and will keep many labor dollars at home," Pritchett and other chamber officials said.

WITH DEL MILNE

"Hello Del, this is John Johnson, yeah, over at the ladies ready-to-wear emporium. Just called to let you know you better be getting your part of this fashion luncheon in line because I have arranged for the most beautiful gowns and other wearables you ever set your eyes on. Honestly Del, this stuff would actually melt in your mouth and not talking about your food. I had to buy every bit of it too, used to be we could borrow a piece or two but not now. If you want the "cream of the crop" by gee you have to buy it so buy it we did and believe me it's wonderful. How's the seat reservation going? Fine, that's swell — sure there will probably be some late ones that will be sorry but you can't help that. Sure I can come over, be there in about 15 minutes."
