Announcements were made that sufficient signatures had been secured on the petition to guarantee the kindergarten to be included in the regular school system, a new project for the autumn term of school, and also the Bible program, April 17 at 8 p.m., at the Eugene Field auditorium, with Miss Geraldine French in charge. The Bible classes are a Ministerial Association sponsored project.

CHRISTINE'S EX-BOY FRIEND MARRIES

U. S. Air Force Sgt. Bill Calhoun, of Everman, Texas, a former boy friend of Christine Jorgensen, stands with his bride, Joyce Laws, an Ipswich, England, shopgirl, after their marriage at Ipswich. Calhoun and his bride met last December after word leaked out that he had been dating Christine without knowing she had once been a GI. Joyce said she felt sorry for the sergeant, who was taking a kidding from his pals at the Bentwaters base, and the romance resulted. (AP Wirephoto)

Accidents Start Damage Actions

Albany — Four damage suits involving claims totaling $264,000, each growing out of personal injuries allegedly received by the plaintiffs in accidents, were filed in circuit court in Linn county Tuesday.

Three are asking damages alleged to have been caused in industrial mishaps and one is the result of a traffic accident.

Largest claim was filed by Robert Lewis Sills who asks a judgment of $144,000 against the Cascades Plywood corporation of Lebanon, by whom he was employed as a slicer operator.

The Linn Plywood corporation of Albany is named defendant in two suits, each plaintiff asking $55,000.

In the one case, Earl V. Barney, a millwright, claims permanent disability as a result of a fall he asserts he suffered while engaged in dismantling an old dry kiln June 10, 1952.

Virgil Russell, employed also by Linn Plywood, alleges that on Dec. 24, 1952, he slipped and fell while feeding a hog fuel conveyor outdoors in the rain where footing was rendered precarious by the moisture.

The fourth suit was brought by Roy Morford against Andrew St. Clair and the Hammond Lumber Co., claiming $10,000 damages. Morford alleges that he was driving his pick-up truck westward on the Lebanon-Lacombe road Sept. 8, 1952, when another pick-up, driven by St. Clair and owned by the Hammond company approached him rapidly from the opposite direction. The Hammond vehicle, Morford claims, skidded as it neared him and turned broadside in his path.

Detroit Plans New Building

Detroit—Plans for the construction of a Detroit community building to be erected soon were discussed at an open meeting of the city council Tuesday.

Harry Rutherford drew plans for the proposed building which will be constructed largely with donated labor and materials salvaged from the Mongold recreation hall. Cash contributions are being solicited to help with costs, estimated to be $1200.

Ted Miller, Four Corners fire chief, was guest speaker, explaining fire-fighting needs and equipment suitable for small towns. Other out-of-town guests were Frank Borden and Dale Jeffries of Four Corners and Frank Hale of Portland. Harold Champion and John Estey explained the services of the Idanha fire department and urged that Detroit actively support their fire organization which now protects the Detroit area.

Portland Bid Low on Army Transport Job

San Francisco (AP)—Willamette Iron and Steel company, Portland, was low bidder here on a job the Military Sea Transportation Service called the largest transport conversion job it has ever offered.

The firm bid $3,014,000 for conversion, rearmament and overhaul of the P-2 type transport Gen. W. H. Gordon.

Murphy and Ramage On Welfare Board

Claude H. Murphy, Salem realtor and John Ramage, former canneryman of Woodburn, have been named to membership on the Marion county welfare commission.

Murphy, who sat in during the March meeting of the commission, takes the place caused by the resignation of Mrs. Gladys Shields, Jefferson newspaperwoman, while Ramage replaces Mrs. Abner Kline. Both of the women resigned.

School Bonds at Albany Sold

Albany — Members of the Union High school district No. 8 board of directors Monday night voted acceptance of the First National Bank of Portland bid on the $1,350,000 20-year bond issue voted by the people last year to finance construction of a new high school building here.

The First National's bid was the lower of two submitted. The United States National bank of Portland was the other bidder.

Actual sale of the bonds will be deferred pending final disposition of a friendly suit brought in circuit court here to validate formation of the union high school district. The litigation will soon be in the hands of the state supreme court for final judgment.

The First National bid on the bond contained an offer of $100.02 for each $100 par value bond and interest rates from 3½ to 3 per cent depending upon time of maturity. The purchase contract will provide that $67,000 of the bonds shall be retired annually from 1954 to 1963, inclusive, and $68,000 will retire thereafter annually until 1973, when the last bond will be redeemed.

Portland Council May Change Working Hours

Portland (AP) — The Portland city council has scheduled a public hearing for April 29 on whether to change working hours of city employees to conform with daylight saving time.

Oregon has a new law prohibiting "fast time." City employees want to start work an hour earlier to get the extra hour of daylight. Similar requests have been made by federal and private employees.
