

Salem Man in Post Article

Mentioned in an article on the world's first atomic-powered submarine in the Saturday Evening Post of April 18 is a Salem man, James H. Smith.

The article, entitled "The Daredevil of the Nautilus" and written by Jack Alexander, notes that Smith is one of the Navy men selected to man the submarine. The group is now taking advance training at the Atomic Energy Commission's reactor testing station in southeastern Idaho.

Smith is the son of Guy O. Smith, formerly of Salem and now of Delake, Oregon, and the brother of Robert O. Smith of Salem and Lawrence Smith now of Albuquerque, N.M.

A graduate of Salem high school with the class of 1942, Smith, now a chief electronics technician mate, first entered the Navy in 1943 and spent most of his time on submarine duty in the South Pacific until released from the service in 1946.

The Salem man after leaving the service returned to Pomona College, where he had been a student before entering the service. He left college in the spring of 1948 and re-entered the Navy as an electronics technician mate, first class, and was again given submarine duty.

Smith remained on submarine duty until shortly before he was sent to Pittsburgh for about a year and a half of training in preparation for his work in the atomic field. Approximately a year ago he was sent from there to the Idaho testing station.

Keizer

Keizer — The Keizer school board reports that all the teachers for the 1953-54 school year have been rehired excepting one, Mrs. Kennedy, who has resigned.

Those hired will include teachers for both the old and new school.

Teachers include Principal, Mrs. Carmalite Weddle; teachers, Tina Anderson, Althea Bergman, Elda Bradford, Alviria Brown, Gladys Burch, Lillian Carl, Ena May Cartwright, Willow Evans, Marguerite Gilles, Ira Goddard, Loretta Gooding, Edna Goodman, Mary Hammack, Vivian Hoenig, Johana Kortzeborn, W. Krause, Pearl Langeland, Barbara Lovick, Ione MacNamara, Zanana Means, Christine Mehner, Ethel Murphy, Mildred Odgers, Mary Priessler, Hazel Patterson, Lois Sauer, Robert Wood, Nellie Yung, Dorothy Quinn, Thomas Summers, Edwin Fitzsimons and Dorothy Mohr.

The board expects to advertise for bids for the new school during the last week of April. Construction will start soon after, and it is hoped to have the school ready for the fall term of school.

A three-act comedy will be given at the Keizer Grange hall by the Clear Lake players Friday, April 17, starting at 8 p.m. A free will offering will be taken and refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ridpath and family moved Friday to Salem. They formerly lived at 885 Janet avenue, and are now at 1551 Market street.

Five Qualify for Safe Driver Awards

Five employees of the Union Oil Company have qualified for safe driver awards.

The recognition is given employees who have driven company vehicles a minimum of three years without accident, according to W. I. Martin, northwest territory manager.

Those qualified are: G. C. Alexander, M. L. Crowe, S. L. Jackson, H. G. Johnson, W. S. Christopher.

Union established the award to encourage its drivers to practice "defensive driving," and made it available under rules comparable to those of the National Safety Council.

"The Defensive Driver," says James E. Hill, supervisor of safety and training, "expects and makes allowance for reckless and careless action of others. He adjusts his driving to meet all hazards of weather, roads, traffic and other conditions."

Eugene Will Host Loggers

The 15th annual Willamette Valley Logging Conference and Machinery Show will be held in Eugene at the Lane County Fairgrounds, April 23, 24 and 25.

This will be a two-million dollar display of logging machinery, the largest in the Northwest and one of the largest in the world. These giant machines of the woods will be handling logs for demonstration during the three day meeting as announced by President Welfred Laird of Giffry & Laird Logging company, McKenzie, Oregon.

This year's program is based on forest products utilization and will be of special interest to the small loggers of western Oregon, according to John Ruhl of Coos Bay Lumber Company, vice president and program chairman of this year's conference.

Some of the noted specialists on this program are William Welch of Crown Zellerbach Corp., San Francisco, Calif.; W. F. McCulloch, School of Forestry, Oregon State college, Corvallis; Bert Thomas, Valsetz Lumber Company Valsetz, Corvallis; and the Southern Oregon Conservation Tree Farm Association will have a panel.

The entire meeting, displays, and banquet will be held at the Lane County Fairgrounds, with the exception of the style show for the ladies Friday afternoon.

Saturday's program is devoted to power saw bucking contests and the entire display will be open to the public.

Cherrians to Enter Float in Rose Parade
A floral float representing Salem will be entered in the Rose parade at Portland this year, according to Hunt Clark, King Bing of the Salem Cherrians.

Business and industrial concerns of the city are being asked by the Cherrians for assistance in raising the almost $2,000 necessary for the Salem entry.

Clark said the Cherrians in the future will operate a concession at the State Fair, and that no solicitation will be made. Earnings from the concession, plus membership revenues, should make it possible for the Cherrians to carry the burden alone, he said.

Turkey which was still importing grain in 1950 has become the fifth largest grain exporter in the world says the National Geographic Society.
