

Quiet Meeting On Zoning

Of the five sectional hearings that have been held by the committee on Salem rezoning the one held at City Hall Thursday night for the people in the center of the city was about the shortest and quietest.

The usual suggestions for revision of the tentative zoning map relative to areas designated for residential, business and industrial were heard, and Robert Stanley, chairman of the committee, said all would be given consideration.

South Salem men, Clayton Jones, Roy Adsett and Moody Benner, had a pertinent question at the start. They wanted to know whether, once the new plan has been established by the city council, it could still be changed according to the need and desire of the people. Chairman Stanley said changes would still be possible, in about the same way that is permitted by the present code. Jones said he had heard changes must be petitioned within five years. That wasn't true, he was told.

The same group of men though South Commercial street should have more business zoning than the committee has so far indicated, particularly south of Wilson street.

Walter Snyder, city school superintendent, thought that the main residential zone, R-1, should permit schools as well as playgrounds, gardens, libraries and fire stations, explaining that in location of schools the residential situation is important.

H. P. Sentman represented the First Congregational Church with an objection to a C-3, or general business zone classification in the blocks in close proximity to the church, and said he thought the First Christian Church would have the same objection.

E. R. Derry, owner of a four-unit apartment house at 1040 Bellevue, submitted a property owners petition objecting to a

General Joins Film Company

New York (AP)—Stockholders of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation will vote at their meeting May 5 on the nomination of Gen. James A. Van Fleet, former Eighth Army commander in Korea, to be a member of the board of directors.

Spyros P. Skouras, president of the company, announced yesterday that Van Fleet had accepted an invitation to join the board. He said he asked the general some time ago to take the position.

Van Fleet, in a message accepting the post, said he felt the motion picture industry "is a great instrument for portraying the goodness and decency of America to an ever-growing audience of people who are yearning to know more about freedom and to serve freedom and maintain it everywhere."

DETROIT MOVIES
Detroit — The Deanna PTA will sponsor a movie, "The Adventures of Gallant Bess," to be shown Friday evening at 7:45 in the school gymnasium. Proceeds from the film will constitute the year's fund raising by the organization.

commercial zone on the south side of Mill street between Winter and 12th and a light manufacturing zone on the north side.

Marvin Stuhr, operator of Mar's Lunch on State between Liberty and Commercial, had a suggestion about car parking in the downtown area. He thought that parts of business blocks could be set apart for parking and the cost of their development assessed against benefited property in the same manner that assessments are made for street improvements.

COMMUNIST POWS ON THEIR WAY

Crippled Communist prisoners of war disembark from a United Nations LST at Pusan, Korea, as they complete the first leg of their trip to repatriation at Panmunjom. They were brought from Chejudo. Some of the POWs on this LST staged a sitdown strike and refused to move until soldiers wearing gas masks and carrying bayoneted rifles came aboard. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Tokyo.)

Rowan Heads Control Group

Oregon's hotel men at a joint meeting of the Oregon and Washington State Hotel associations in Spokane Sunday through Wednesday named a five-man standing committee for the control of liquor.

The committee, to be known as the Oregon Hotel Temperance and Control Committee, is headed by Leonard Rowan, Chadwick hotels of Salem. Other members of the committee are Morris Temple, Temple Hotel, Pendleton; Gordon Bass, Multnomah hotel, Portland; Alfred Gantner, Mallory and Imperial hotels, Portland; and Paul Landsdown, Eugene hotel, Eugene.

Purpose of the committee, patterned along the same line as the Washington State Hotel and Restaurant Licensees Inc., will be to work with the state liquor commission and other organizations in Oregon in establishing temperate laws and administration in distribution of liquor. The committee will also emphasize the enforcement of liquor laws.

CHILD'S BODY FOUND
Kelso, Wash. (AP) — Search for a two-year-old girl ended when her body was found in a drainage ditch here Wednesday night. The body of Joyce Gutesell was found in about four feet of water in the southern part of Kelso after her family had launched a search for her.
