Some Notations . . .

By M. L. F.

The series of Monday luncheon and style show events at the Marion hotel was off to an auspicious start yesterday, nearly 200 attending the affair in the Mirror room . . . The luncheon began promptly at 12:30 o'clock, the style revue opened on the dot at 1 p.m. and was over promptly at 2 o'clock — the punctuality and zip being contributing factors to the success of the show . . . Tables for all sized groups were set up, many of them for twosomes, others for quartets and on up to larger groups — and that was another of the factors contributing to the success of the event.

Lastly, and certainly most important, the show was a delight to view . . . How beautiful and still practical cotton clothing can be, from sunbacks and shorts to afternoon and formal frocks, was revealed in the display . . . Johnson's store put on the show, the event this time stressing attire for the summer and vacation months . . . Other themes will be featured by Johnson's at later shows . . .

The hotel plans the Monday style show luncheon once a month, the next one to be May 18 . . . And here is an important reminder — make your reservations and make them early . . . Several there were unable to attend the Monday show because they did not realize reservations were to be made with the hotel . . . The series will recess through June and July, but will open again in August to continue through the fall and winter . . . Mrs. W. C. Dyer, Jr., was the capable commentator for the Monday party . . . An orchestra played background music . . . The luncheon was served promptly, permitting the crowd to enjoy the show without interruption . . .

The models walked through the crowd after leaving the center stage . . . Modeling the clothes yesterday were Mrs. Bruce Williams, Mrs. Harold Schick, Jr., Mrs. Jack Schlimberg, Mrs. C. A. Schaefer, Mrs. James E. Phillips, Mrs. Oscar C. Christensen, Mrs. S. D. Wiles, Mrs. William E. Shinn, Mrs. Willis Ross . . .

Glimpsed among the crowd: Mrs. James B. Young and Mrs. Linn C. Smith, at one of the tables for two; a bridge club, including Mrs. Henry A. Simmons, Mrs. Harris Lietz, Mrs. L. R. Burdette, Mrs. Ellis Von Eschen, Mrs. Richard A. Meyer, Mrs. William Paulus, Mrs. C. Lester Newman, Mrs. William Schlitt; another group of eight — Mrs. Hubert L. Williamson, Mrs. Alton L.
