

Separate Committee on Planning Gets Approval

The city planning and zoning commission, meeting Tuesday night, approved the setting up of a separate planning committee within the organization.

Four members will serve on the committee which has not yet been appointed by Chairman W. W. Rosebraugh. The approval was given upon receipt of a report from Robert K. Powell, Frank Guerin and V. D. McMullen, who investigated the progress of planning as against zoning in other cities.

One duty of the committee will be to help in the coordination of city planning with state and county planning.

The commission voted to recommend to the city council a change from zone from Class II residential to Class III-X restricted business for property at the southeast corner of North Capitol and Jefferson so a real estate business can be operated. J. F. LeClerc was the applicant.

Deferred for later action on receipt of details as to future plans of the concern was application of the Glenn H. Woodry furniture and auction market for a zone change from Class II residential to Class III-X restricted business at Norway and North Summer. Several speakers at a hearing said the petition did not provide for setback and off-street parking, which they demanded. Lawrence N. Brown, appearing for applicant, said both would be satisfactory and told the commission to include car parking and a setback up to 20 feet in the recommendation to the city council.

The commission approved a

Lewis Assails McKay Choice

Washington, D.C.—Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, who already had two fights on his hands, found himself in another row today over his "new team" appointments to the interior department.

This time the scrappy ex-Governor of Oregon is fighting in the heavyweight class. His opponent is John L. Lewis.

Informed sources disclosed that the United Mine Workers president has appealed to the White House to block McKay's plan to install Thomas Lyon of Salt Lake City, Utah, as director of the Bureau of Mines.

Lewis, who feels that he and his union have a special interest in the bureau, was reported to have complained in a letter to presidential assistant Sherman Adams that Lyon has "no working knowledge of the coal industry." Lyon is now head of the metals expansion division of the defense materials agency.

As of today, McKay was standing his ground. An interior department spokesman said the Secretary would stick by his choice of Lyon, regardless of Lewis' protest.

But sources close to Lewis said the UMW chief regards the issue as "the lives of coal miners versus political jobs." That pronouncement was taken here as a warning that Lewis might call a coal strike, if need be, to demonstrate his displeasure. He did it once before, when President Truman named a Bureau of Mines director he didn't like.

zone change, on application of Mrs. S. A. Wheatley, on the north side of Court between Cottage and Winter for operation of a tea room on the basement level.

The Broadmoor plat in southeast Salem was accepted, and May 19 was set as the date for a public hearing on the zone classification for an area from Oxford to the south city limits between 22nd and 24th streets where the revised zoning plan sets up an industrial district. Mrs. Harriett Ness Ruff represented petitioners who want it made residential. Some extensive house construction is planned.

On the same date will be a public hearing on petition of R. F. Polanski for a zone change at 620 South Summer so a beauty parlor may be established in the Romeo Apartment house.

Referred to the name committee was a petition of property owners on Haight street for a change of the street name to Holiday Drive.

Approval was given a petition of residents in the 4700 block of Hayesville Drive asking a change of name to Lilac Lane. The change was asked for because of a duplication in street names.
