Campus Readies for Big Events

By ANN CARSON
(Capital Journal Correspondent)
University of Oregon, Eugene, (Special)—Duck preview was a grand success and if the high school seniors had as much fun as the university students did I am sure that they will register at Oregon in the fall.

At the All-Campus Vodvil, Delta Gamma and Sigma Nu took the honors. Delta Gamma presented a parody on a fundamentals II class and Sigma Nu presented "Let's Dial In." They went from songs of the "rough and tough" range to the soft harmony of Hawaiian music, with intermediary stations.

The all-campus auction took place Friday afternoon with all of the proceeds going to the World Student Service fund. Groups ranging from beauty queens to "Ugly Man" finalists, including some professors, were auctioned.

Tours were conducted Saturday morning, and Salem seniors viewing the school were Barbara Franzwa, Claudia Waters, Mary Shrunck, Evelyn Lepold, Gary Parker and Johnny Coughlin.

That afternoon there was an amphibian show, a baseball game and a panhellenic tea. Clarice Waters, Mary Shrunck, Patti Deeney and Julie Miller were some seniors who attended.

For the college seniors, it was rather wistful to see those who would enter school next year. We thought of all the fun of our four years and rather wished that we could trade places with them and go through all of the enjoyment and excitement of college again—but "Time Marches On."

Junior Week-end is coming up soon, next week to be exact. A finalist among the Junior Week-end aspirants is Joan Marie Miller, who is also very busy in campus activities. She is also co-chairman of the week-end.

Mothers' Week-end also coincides with Junior Week-end. It is wonderful to see mothers and their daughters or sons wandering around enjoying meeting old friends and new ones. The mothers who have graduating seniors for children will probably be rather wistful, too, because the week-end is beautifully planned and will certainly be a memorable occasion for all those who attend.

We are looking forward to seeing all of you mothers (and fathers, too) down for the week-end.

These two week-ends are rather symbolic; Duck Preview welcomes those who are coming in, and Junior Week-end honors those who are going out.

This present week has been very busy one for all living organizations because the All-Campus sing eliminations are taking place. At almost anytime of the day or night you can hear musical strains floating out of the windows.

Couple Wed On April 26

Albany—Wed at a double ring ceremony on Sunday, April 26, were Mrs. Irene Eudell Witt of Albany and James H. Harding. The Rev. George H. Huber read the 4 o'clock service before 75 relatives and friends at the First Methodist church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ellingson of Portland and the bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Melvin Harding.

The chancel was decorated with yellow tulips and snapdragons arranged in white baskets. Candelabrum with yellow tapers were placed on either side of the altar. Lighting the candles were Lee Miller and George Tyser.

Mrs. Glenn Taylor played the wedding music and accompanied Marvin Martz who sang preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gray faille suit with navy accessories and a gray Juliet cap trimmed with pink flowers. She carried a nosegay of pink baby roses.

Mrs. Harold McLain was matron of honor and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Virgil Baker. Both attendants wore lavender suits and headbands of shaded lavender flowers. They carried nosegays of white carnations and lavender stock.

Harold McLain acted as best man and ushers were Virgil Baker, Lee Miller and George Tyser.

Both the mother of the bride and the bridegroom's mother wore gray suits with white accessories and gardenia corsages. Following the ceremony the couple greeted guests at a reception in the fireplace room of the church. Yellow tulips and snapdragons were used on the fireplace mantel. The bride's table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake with yellow flower decorations. Mrs. Ralph Miller and Mrs. C. R. Williams of Mill City served the cake. Mrs. George Tyser was at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Albert Miller poured the coffee. Mrs. Glenn Mollett was in charge of the reception.

After the reception, a buffet supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLain, 1805 East Second avenue, to 20 relatives and friends of the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Harding left on a wedding trip to southern Oregon. After May 3 they will be at home at 416 Denver, Albany.

The bride was graduated from the Commerce high school in Portland and the bridegroom attended Albany high school. Mr. Harding is employed by the Southern Pacific Railway company.

House guests of Mrs. Klev's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Byberg and daughter, Carole.

Mrs. Klev was honored at a luncheon, Tuesday, at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Nelson of Immanuel Lutheran church. Her granddaughter, Carole Byberg, presented her with a life membership pin for the Woman's Missionary Federation. Mrs. R. B. Lester planning the ceremonial.

Staprans Exhibit Up

By LANETA KING
Raimonds Staprans, 26-year old, Latvian-born artist, is offering his third one-man show in Salem at the Clifford Gleason studio, April 29 to May 14. The artist has hung fifteen large oils impressive in color interest.

This show, with one exception, the "Sunset District," is mainly concerned with investigating pigments applied in layers one over the other, or glazes. By glazing over a pink, for instance, a green of considerably more power can be obtained than with pure color. This process, which has long fascinated artists and is familiar in the rich, vibrating colors of many 18th and 19th century masters, here is made contemporary by contrasts of heavy impasto pigments from a palette knife. These two opposing techniques within a canvas produce a striking color display of strong lights and darks that is typically modern as seen in all of Staprans' "Still Lifes," his "Broadway Oakland," his "Bay Scene" and "Mission Dolores." "Chinatown, San Francisco" is a particularly vigorous color achievement approached abstractly and worked up to a terrific yellow light from out of darks. "Green Sunlight" uses a green-toned yellow to give the mood of approaching rain to the sun of a street in Seattle. His one picture of local setting, "West Salem" assumes the typical valley color tone quite different from his Californian scenes.

"I am striving to bring more artistry into painting of portraits," Mr. Staprans says. "The whole canvas must be of sufficient quality to express the mood of the subject just as in other paintings." Accordingly, in "A Portrait," the head is deliberately simple against a warm pattern of deep brown, grey and pink. The head of "Anne" is set against a dynamic background of glaze that is carried forward into the throat and shawl of the foreground. To this viewer, a well-integrated study with a fully creative canvas is his "Margaret" where the artist has placed the flowing curves of a figure in repose within a setting of verticals and horizontals.

If the seriousness and promise of Mr. Staprans' talent points up the quality of future shows, the people of Salem can look forward to some fine exhibits at Gleason's.
