Radio-Television
By DAVE BLACKMER

Joseph Brenner, vice-president of the Lawrence Harvey Television interests called Tele-Views Saturday in regard to an invitation which I sent to Harvey on behalf of the Television Association of Salem.

Brenner accepted the invitation to speak before the Television Association of Salem on May 11, at the Senator hotel.

Flying to Oregon along with Brenner will be Harold Jury, former CBS chief engineer at Los Angeles. Jury will hold down the post of chief engineer for KPIC-TV and also serve as engineer adviser for the other Harvey channels.

Brenner will work in a coordinating position for Harvey. Although, Brenner warns that, Harvey is going to work very closely with him on all business and Harvey will personally pass on all applicants before getting the final OK for their jobs.

Following their original appearance in Salem, and their speaking engagement at the Television dinner May 11, both men will be in Salem for several days to work on the technical details of the station.

Hiring of help for the station is the least of their worries according to Mr. Brenner. Brenner said there are far more important matters that must be taken care of first.

On the position of station manager, Brenner said that they have well over 3 applications for the position. And nary an individual was singled out for having the "inside track" for the job.

In our chat Saturday afternoon Tele-Views also learned that the station is still planning to be on the air in September, however, if things go well a test pattern will be on the air before that.

A one kilowatt transmitter, manufactured by the Radio Corporation of America will be the power used when the station goes on the air. However the power will be increased at the availability of high powered transmitters.

A complete biography of both men will appear in Tele-Views later in the week. Any technical questions you may have, please send them to TELE-VIEWS we will forward them on to Brenner so that he can confirm his answers from Harvey before leaving Los Angeles for Salem.
