

Judging Difficult Job In Spring Garden Show

Neighborhood gardeners combined forces to provide one of the best spring garden shows in a number of years at the Izaak Walton League club house on South Cottage street over the week-end.

A number of courtesy displays were unusually attractive while the 15-table display of the various groups taking part made the task of judging a difficult one. One table, arranged for the fisherman who boasted before he left home, only to return with little fish, drew many chuckles. Baked beans and sardines had prominent places in this display.

The American violet exhibit indicated the interest in this particularly attractive flower.

Oak Grove Gardeners' bridal table won first honors in that division, with second, third and fourth places going to Wee Weebers, South Hill club, and Keizer Garden club, respectively.

The Lebanon collection will form the basis of the emergency shipment, it was pointed out. To facilitate the local bloodmobile visit, the Elks cancelled plans for a social night for its members and their wives that evening.

Clad in a cardinal red robe and a white stole, the curly-headed baritone sang verses written by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, senate chaplain, in a Mother's day service in the crowded Fourth Methodist church.

It was the first time Laine had sung in a church since he was a choir boy in 1927.

Visitation at Salem Heights

Salem Heights — Visitation week ended Friday at Salem Heights and was favorable to both parents and teachers.

Harry B. Johnson, superintendent of the Salem system, believes that visitation week at the Salem Heights school was the first of its kind, and that a form of visiting school had been originated.

Parents seemed at first skeptical of the plan but now seem to prefer it to achievement night as it gives them the opportunity to watch their child in the surroundings of the classroom, their reactions to classes and other students, and the school work being done rather than just the finished product on achievement night.

The teachers felt that it had an advantage over the achievement night as the parents could see exactly what is taught and the methods of teaching used, rather than a display on achievement night.

The percentage of parents was about the same as on open house, with an amazing number of fathers and even grandfathers attending.

Although it was a lot of extra work for both Mrs. Leslie Bates, and Mrs. Lillian Boatwright in the cafeteria, they expressed favorable reaction and a worthwhile project, as parents ate with their children at the cafeteria.

Special arrangements had to be made for the children eating cold lunches to make room for the parents.

Monday was visitation day for the first grades, Tuesday for the second grades, Wednesday, third grade, Thursday, fourth grade and Friday, fifth and sixth grades.

Parents attended morning and afternoons, or both, they went to the playgrounds with the children at the same lunches as the children enjoy in the cafeteria.

A questionnaire will be sent home later to make a personal survey in each family as to their reaction to visitation week.

Old Friends Meet Here After 53 Years

It was an enjoyable visit recently when Mrs. Bertha Dailey of Beaverton and Mrs. Pauline Irons met at the latter's home, 638 North 17th street.

Once they were girlhood friends in Winona, Minn., but they hadn't seen each other for 53 years.

Mrs. Dailey came to Salem, accompanied by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Berger, also of Beaverton. The Berbers returned to their home, but Mrs. Dailey remained for a longer visit.

Movie extras in Italy are paid $3.30 a day.
