Bonus for War

certificates referred to in the act were to have been issued in lieu of money that would be available at a later date. Thorton said that the restriction did not effect bonus payments but merely the certificates.

George A. Jones, bonus division supervisor, said that the division had received 297 late bonus applications, 329 requests for application blanks and there are some 235 cases on file of "partial payments where one of the two parents or one or more of the children of the deceased veterans failed to apply by the original deadline.

In these latter cases, Jones said, if only one parent, for example, filed, he was paid half the bonus due both parents. The remaining half of the bonus couldn't be paid because the other eligible party failed to file.

This brings to 876 the number of known cases who would probably be entitled to bonus payments. In addition, Jones said, many inquiries have been received since the deadline where veterans did not file because they had been told that it was too late.

He said that he expects the division to receive from 4,000 to 5,000 new applications, but expected that only about 2,000 of them will turn out to be valid claims.

Application forms are available through veterans organizations, county veterans' service officers, the regional and field offices of the federal veterans administration and direct from the state department of veterans' affairs, state library building, Salem, of the department in the state office building in Portland.

The division to date has paid soldiers' bonus to 129,976 veterans and next of kin in the amount of $48,794,155.

Alan Smith Camp Cook Champion at 4-H Show

By CLAUDE STEUSLOFF

Alan Smith of 440 North 22nd street is camp cookery champion of the annual 4-H club show.

Nicely baked, nice color, try to cut biscuits so the sides will look more uniform," commended the judge in placing the purple ribbon on Alan's plate of six tasty specimens from his own baking powder biscuit recipe.

There was plenty of competition from 20 other nine to 12 year old boy biscuit mixers including blue ribbon winners Thomas Alley, 395 south 14th street and John Hemann of 1455 Mill street. They are enrolled in two camp cookery clubs, one led by Mrs. Ralph Barnes, 2225 Mission street and Mrs. Robert Smith, 440 North 22nd street and the other by Mrs. John Gallagher, 1498 Court street and Mrs. George Heumann, 1455 Mill street.

Sandra Smith, 16 year old Salem high school student of 285 West Rural avenue, exhibited a nicely finished pink wool dress with pleated skirt which was awarded the champion ribbon for best dress of the show in the advanced clothing division.

A two color playuit entered by Carolyn Bishop of 2595 South 15th street was champion of clothing division three. Carolyn is a Leslie Junior High school student.

Champion of the Sew It for Fun project for junior needleworkers was Barbara Glodt, 11 year old seamstress of 669 Riverside Drive, West Salem. Her handiwork included a pot-holder, scarf and apron.

Jeanette Edwards of 2215 North Liberty street was champion of the Charmingly Yours project for first year sewing members. "Just So Girl" project for the beginning phase of clothing work brought out 35 non-competitive exhibits from nine and ten year old girl members.

Gary Low, 11 year old student at the Oregon State School for Blind, received the champion ribbon in Forestry projects with an attractive display featuring Cedar, Fir, Cottonwood, Willow and Maple tree sections.

Blue ribbon winners in first year sewing included: Anne Meusey and Mary Jo Meusey, 1740 North 18th street; Jo Ann Marsh, 2430 Maple Ave.; Marie Greipentrot, 2415 Hazel Ave.; Lee Coffey, 520 Tryon Ave.; Suzanne Marker, 3320 Rowlling; Gale Diment, State School for Deaf; and Roberta Meusey, 1740 North 19th street.

Lynn Seipp, 598 North 20th street was champion of the home woodworking division. A blue ribbon went to Ronald Simmons, 1310 North 17th street.

A well executed splice board, test lamp and tool box won an electrical champion award for Stuart Smith, 235 West Rural Ave. Richard Bishop, 2595 South 12th street won a blue ribbon.

Judging was done on the Danish system which awards blue, red and green ribbons for standards of excellence in each class. Mrs. Oscar White, former Marion county home demonstration agent, judged the clothing displays and will pick winners of the style show. Mrs. Scott Foster assisted with first year clothing work. Miss Ervina Fisher, Marion county home demonstration agent, placed awards in knitting and home-making. Mrs. Janet Nelson is cooking and muffin contest judge. Mrs. Earl Hampton, demonstrations and cake baking; Anthol Riney and R. C. Jory, woodworking and electrical; Charles Ladd and Gene Hanemann, forestry; complete the list of judges.

The show, at 237 North Liberty street, is open to the public and will continue through Saturday. There are 260 exhibits of which cookery is the largest in number. Five clubs at the State school for Blind have forty entries and four clubs at the State school for

The weapons, which can fire either conventional ammunition or atomic shells, are being organized into two-gun batteries. One such battery is at the Nevada site.

A Defense Department spokesman said that, when Wilson said he favored increased production of atomic artillery, he was referring only to the 280 millimeter Army gun. The spokesman said the secretary did not have in mind the use of such guns as part of the armament of naval vessels.

The army has said its 85-ton gun 'can fit into a landing ship designed for amphibious operations.'

Parakeet Club Meets—The Willamette Valley Parakeet Club met Wednesday night at Salem Public Library, the second monthly meeting since its organization. The club is unique in that it has no regular list of officers. Its meetings are directed by a "conductor," who Wednesday night was showing 47 projects. Highlights of the show is the style show at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Blind school auditorium. This public presentation is built around the Cinderella theme and will feature winners of the style review judging to be held at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Clothing and cooking judging contests, a stitching contest, wool sewing contest and clothing demonstrations will be conducted beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Liberty street showroom. This afternoon and evening starting at 4:30 and 7:00 a cake baking contest will be held at Hogg brothers kitchen. Saturday a muffin baking contest will start at 8:45 a.m. to be followed by cooking demonstrations during the afternoon.

EASY PAY

The city proposes to set up one of these fine deposit boxes in each downtown block, so you won't have to go to police headquarters with your violation ticket. It will be mounted on a standard like a parking meter.

"My answer was that all times should go to the grand jury," he said. "That was all I knew about it."

The Kansas City vote case stemmed from a 1946 domestic primary election in which then President Truman intervened with the aim of getting that Rep. Roger Slaughter (D., Kas.) was not returned office. Slaughter had opposed some of Truman's policies.

Slaughter lost the nomination but there were charges of fraud. In the midst of investigations, a safe in the Kansas City courthouse was opened and robbed of impounded dollars. There was never any direct prosecution but state court convicted numerous persons of election law violations.
