Mrs. Sprague Will Head AAUW Here

Other new officers chosen are Mrs. John F. Hann, vice president; Mrs. Charles Layport, secretary; Mrs. Stanley Butler, treasurer; and Mrs. E. W. Reitor, student loan trustee.

The girls exhibited exercises and performed eight dances which had been composed by the students themselves. Their accompanist at the piano was Miss Ellen Foley.

Peg in Washington

BY ALENE (PEG) PHILLIPS

Washington, D.C., May 11. Dear Marian: For a variation, how would you like a Washington recipe? This is "Crab Norfolk," as prepared by a well-known restaurant here. Place enough butter in a casserole to cover the bottom of the dish, went melted. Heat the dish thoroughly and place the crab meat in the casserole. Lightly sprinkle with paprika so that it will be golden in color. Place in a hot oven for about five minutes until it is thoroughly heated through and add as much dry imported sherry as there is butter in the dish. Don't add the wine until the casserole and crab are heated. Remove from oven as soon as sherry is added and serve immediately. Dip the butter-wine sauce over the crab when it is placed on plates. I like this with lobster, as well as crab or shrimp.

Lou and Faye Stanley were in the office this week. Lou, who was with the State Engineer's office in Salem for a number of years, is scheduled now for a tour of duty in Iceland with the Army Engineers. They have had many interesting years with Lou working in overseas spots and during several years in Alaska. More recently they have been in Portland. Faye was holding to a thin hope that she might eventually get to join her husband in Iceland but for the present orders do not permit.

Tom Stoddard, with Commonwealth in Portland and known to many Salem friends, was enjoying a reunion with Keith Hall here this week. E. H. Baldoock, state highway engineer, is luncheon tomorrow with Secretary McKay in between sessions with Congressional committees on highway matters. One evening while Governor Paul L. Patterson was in Washington, he was the guest at a banquet of My Samuels, Portland attorney, and Dave Robbison, another attorney of Portland who has been in Salem frequently as a member of the FEPC group and on other public welfare projects. James H. Cellars, Astoria, who only recently wound up his legislative counseling assignment in Salem, is in Washington this week for meetings.

Not all of those we hear of or from have as simple names as those I have mentioned tonight, as among some of our Department correspondents in the Indian Bureau are such unusual names as "Mrs. Grace Kills A Boy" and "Mrs. Ferry Pretty Paint" and "Mrs. Olive Old Bull Comes in A Day." A letter that starts off "Dear Mrs. Kills a Boy" really makes me chuckle as I read through the daily reading file of letters from the various divisions.

Speaking of amusement of one sort or another, the Secretary was enthusiastically reporting this morning of the good time he had yesterday afternoon when he and Mrs. McKay were at the USO, following the Arlington cemetery. He visited with the service men guests of the USO and apparently had some fine moments of relaxation. Such moments are a rarity in the life of a government official. Mrs. McKay was the cake-cutter for the party and Salemites know that she can well perform that role. Greetings from Washington. — Peg.
