

GRAZING SHEEP CLEAN CEMETERY

Pioneer cemetery, formerly Odd Fellows' cemetery, allowed to become overgrown, has been grazed almost clean by sheep placed in the 100 year old graveyard by county and city authorities. One oldtimer was heard to remark, "they did about everything but straighten up the tombstones."

Housewife Loses in Fight With Trucker

Portland 4-2—Housewife Minnie Upshaw of Portland chalked up another setback today in her battle with a freight line over parking trucks in front of her house. Mrs. Upshaw was fined $10 in municipal court yesterday for trespassing on personal property. The truck firm had her arrested for allegedly pouring water into the gas tank of one of the vehicles.

Four Corners

Four Corners — The White Cross group of the Baptist church will have as guest speakers on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Johnson, recently returned from French West Africa. This is an all-day meeting with luncheon at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Oliver Rickman will be hostess in her home.

Teddy Rickman was the honor guest Wednesday after school, celebrating his ninth birthday anniversary. Hostess for the occasion was his mother, Mrs. Oliver Rickman. Coming to extend congratulations were Randy Pierpoint, Joe Walls, Jim Ingalls, Larry Akin, Charles Dunn, Ronnie McInay, Jim Sherman, Larry Laham, Roy Gordon.

Three 4-H cooking clubs held their last meetings this month. The Salt and Pepper Cooking III club, with Mrs. Carol Capps as leader, had five girls with four completing their work. They served the cakes at the May meeting of the Lincoln school Mothers club and exhibited at the Station 4-H show, also marched in the parade there.

The Cooking I clubs, with Mrs. Virgil Lamb and Mrs. Orville Rehfeld as leaders, held a joint meeting with 17 girls from the Sugar and Spice and the Busy Bees completing their record books. These groups displayed cookies at the Mothers club meeting.

House guest of Mrs. Mattie Walker is her daughter, Mrs. Henry Schuette of Seattle.

Old Cemetery Is Renovated

Complete renovation of the older section of Bethany cemetery near Silverton is now being accomplished under the supervision of C. H. Bowen, custodian, who, with the consent of relatives of those buried there, has removed old, askew tombstones and leveled the section with a bulldozer.

In the process of removing old, and in some instances broken, tombstones, brush and unwanted trees have been pushed aside. With the area cleared and leveled care of this old section, where there has been but five interments in 30 years, will be an easier task and conducive to a much better cemetery appearance.

C. H. Bowen, Silverton, Rt. 3, Box 140, is of the third generation in his family who has acted as custodian of the cemetery since 1899. He recalls that the plot was donated for burial usage by Elias Cox, a pioneer of 1846, and that the first interment there was a child's grave of 1850. Cox's grave is in Eastern Oregon.

Bethany church, built in 1858, once stood adjacent to the cemetery. Rev. Caleb P. Chapman was first pastor. Then the church was under the Christian church. In 1863 the name was changed to Silver
