

Speed Reduction Made On North Salem Streets

Speed limits reduced from 30 to 25 miles an hour on parts of North Capitol Street and Fairgrounds Road by an order of the state speed control board was read at the city council meeting Monday night.

On North Capitol the change is between Erison Street and Tile Road, and on Fairgrounds Road between Academy and Summer Streets.

On recommendation of City Manager J. L. Franzen the council voted for the purchase of 56 fine boxes, to be set up in 23 downtown blocks, so motorists whose cars are tagged for parking meter violation may deposit their fines in the boxes, saving them a trip to police headquarters. A box will be placed on each side of the street in the center of the block.

A bid of the Stevens Equipment Company to furnish the boxes for $19.85 each was accepted. The boxes are similar in appearance to mail boxes.

The council Monday night accepted from Capital Post American Legion, an American flag for city use that flew over the national capitol in Washington. Don Dill, post commander, and Dave Hoss made the presentation. The flag was obtained through Congressman Walter Norblad.

Salem's milk supply and regulation were pronounced satisfactory in a letter received from the State Department of Agriculture.

Through Jason Lee, a petition, signed by 87 parents of the Baker School, asked the council for fluoridation of city water, and offered to pay $25 toward the cost if it is done this year. The petition was filed along with much other matter on the subject, both for and against.

The National Association of Manufacturers is helping the national administration cut taxes by asking municipalities to desist from asking for federal grants. Its letter, signed by Ernest Swiger, vice president, was read to the council along with a reply from Mayor Loucks promising cooperation.

Salem Chapter of the Oregon Association of the Deaf is concerned about deaf persons making solicitations and selling articles about the city, using their deafness as an excuse, and asked the council to investigate such persons before giving them permits. The letter asked that legislation be enacted if necessary. Chief of Police Clyde Warren said the deaf are treated just as other persons and no special favors given them.

Referred to the chief of police was a complaint signed by four residents protesting the keeping of a cow at 875 Gerth Avenue.

Referred to the planning and zoning commission was a letter from Horace C. Bell, requesting permission to build a house at the rear of property on Lot 14, Block 3, Carleton.

Approval was given a recommendation of Engineer J. H. Davis that a sanitary sewer on Hoyt from 22nd to Ford be built, but that a request for one on Hoyt from 22nd to the east line of Broadmoor Addition be merely filed. His recommendation that Rural Avenue from Ford to 23rd be given a sanitary sewer, and that Block 4 of Hillhurst Addition be given one when houses are constructed were adopted.

Adopting a report by Alderman Claud Jorgensen the council denied an application from the Crockett Company for a billboard at 484 North Liberty, and Alderman David O'Hara reported that a similar application for a billboard at 310 Pine Street had been withdrawn.

For the reason that the area is being planned as an industrial zone the council tabled an application from Marvin L. Gerrard for a dwelling at 1980 Lewis Street, but application of C. V. Stratton for permit to construct a store at 2378 State with special permission for a 24-foot instead of a 30-foot setback was granted. Application for a billboard at 1870 Market Street, for which the planning and zoning commission recommended denial, was tabled.

Application from St. Bernard's Nursing Home for a vacation of an alley off Hickory street where a new building is planned will get a public hearing July 12.

The council granted Harriet Ness Ruff permit to build four houses in Broadmoor Addition, and General Realty Corporation permits to build 16 houses in New Haven Addition. The two additions are contiguous.

On recommendation of the city manager a bid from Valley Motor Company was accepted to furnish the chief of police with a new city automobile at $1185, counting trade-in.

On the manager's recommendation $810 was earmarked to buy holsters, belts and handcuffs for police officers. Heretofore the officers themselves have furnished them.

A bid of Salem Electric was accepted to furnish power for the westside sewage lift station.

Carl J. Wendt, general manager of City Transit Lines presented his application for increased bus fares and an ordinance bill will be drawn. One change from the original proposal offers eight fares for $1 instead of 10 for $1.25.

Referred to City Attorney Chris J. Kowitz was a remonstrance against building sidewalks on Frederick Street.

Application from the Crockett Company for a billboard at 380 South Church was granted. Effective July 1 the city will by contract give fire service to the Eola Fire Protection District on a pay basis of 6 mills. Between now and that date service will be furnished without contract.

A resolution was adopted granting West Coast Fast Freight permission to install four driveways in Riverside Addition for ingress and egress to its depot.

By resolution stop signs were ordered at the intersection of Cross and Cottage Streets.

Parades in downtown Salem will be adjusted to the one-way street system by an ordinance passed Monday night. The bill provides that for an unusually large parade a special arrangement for use of the one-way streets may be made.

Other ordinances passed included one permitting the installation of a parking area on the parking strip on the west side of 14th south of Bellevue

Giant Auction Plans Proceed

Mt. Angel—A kick-off meeting to complete plans for the state-wide Memorial Day benefit auction for the proposed Benedictine Village Home for the Aged, will be held Wednesday evening in the St. Mary's school.

Assignments of jobs for the big Saturday auction will be given out to all those helping with the mammoth project.

The benefit auction will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, Memorial Day, at the Mount Angel Flax Plant grounds.

Six of the auctioneers who will give their free services to the benefit auction were in Mt. Angel to discuss plans with the committee and looked over the Flax Plant grounds. They expressed themselves delighted with the setup.

The men were especially pleased with the huge, high-ceilinged main building and the fact that the other large sheds are sufficiently far apart to permit several auctions to go on continuously at the same time without interference or confusion.

The auctioneers here included Forest Whitar, Beaverton; Emmett Derskin, Portland; Paul Boeckelman, Slous City, Iowa; and the three Suddells, Ben of Hubbard and his two sons, Lane of Salem and Owen of Beaverton.

Other auctioneers who pledged their free services to the benefit auction are: E. J. Hill, Portland; Ken Benson, Portland; Earl Gillespie, Corvallis, president of the Oregon Association of Auctioneers; Ken Denstrom, Eugene and Wilbur Rice of McMinnville.

Mrs. Al Lulay and Mrs. J. J. Penner who are in charge of a corps of women to handle the food, have asked that the home baked pies which the ladies of the community are donating, may be delivered either to the lunch stand or brought to the Hill Brenden's Service Station in town.
