Silverton Hills Men to Farm Ground at Airport

By MARGARET MAGEE

Farming of land on Salem's airport will be taken over by two farmers from the Silverton Hills area, J. C. Krenz and Richard J. Krenz under a five-year agreement between the two and the City of Salem.

For the past few years what farming has been done on the airport has been by Fairview Home. Four hundred and fifty or more acres are involved in the agreement.

The agreement between the Krenzes and the city of Salem is from October, 1953, to September 30, 1958, but permits the farmers to get onto the land prior to that date to prepare the soil for the next year's crop and do what planting is necessary for the crops for the following year.

That area around the runways and enclosed by the taxways on the airport is restricted to grass or hay crops. Unrestricted farming will be permitted in all of the other areas.

Doctors' Draft Passes Senate

Washington (AP)—The Senate Thursday passed a bill extending for two years, until July 1, 1955, authority to draft doctors, dentists and veterinarians into the armed forces.

The measure, previously passed by the House, was approved on a voice vote without objection after a brief explanation of its terms.

Two changes made by the Senate will have to be ironed out with the House before the legislation goes to the President for his signature.

One amendment would continue the $100 a month extra pay now going to all physicians and dentists who volunteer to accept commissions as officers. The Senate committee also voted the extra $100 monthly above pay of other officers for veterinarians after July 1.

The other Senate change would cut down the required service of the medical officers, depending on prior military service.

The B-36 at the time was the principal long range weapon of the Air Force, and still is much depended upon.

Replying to Mrs. Smith, Radford told her he had participated in conferences in recent years at which the air roles and missions of the Air Force and Navy were worked out.

He said he was in entire agreement with Gen. Carl Spaatz on these matters and that as far as he knew, they still agreed. Spaatz, now retired, was former Air Force chief of staff.

Forest Fire Damage for 1952 Checked by State

During 1952 Oregon had 1,257 forest fires that burned over 23,278 acres of forest lands, according to the official report issued this month by the state forestry department.

The 1952 fire season, lasting 218 days (April 9 to November 14), was the longest since 1936 when the coastal city of Bandon was destroyed. However, it had the lowest losses to reforesting timberlands since 1948.

Greatest damage was in the west side forests because of the fire damage to felled and bucked timber and logging equipment. This loss was estimated at $371,000, with losses to merchantable timber and reproduction placed at $231,000, and losses from 316 smokers' fires amounting to $45,004.

Southwest Oregon district reported the greatest number of fires, with 223. Central Oregon was next with 151. Having the lowest number was Walker Range with 12, with Polk-Benton district second with 27 fires and North Central district third with 38. Heaviest losses were in Coos, Douglas and Lane counties, largely as a result of damage to down timber and logging equipment.

Logging operators showed the greatest improvement in eliminating man-caused forest fires, reducing from the record high of 167 in 1951 to 107 in 1952. At the same time the state forester issued 16,908 logging operation permits, the greatest number since the permit law was passed.

Listed below are the number of fires, causes, acres burned and total damage during the 1952 season.

Russian Control

six participating nations, the American, British and French high commissioners will be "ambassadors" to what amounts to a sovereign state. Matches West's Action

The Russian action was regarded in allied and German quarters here as matching that of the west. It could mean that Moscow is convinced the European treaties will be ratified by all, including reluctant France, and therefore it must be ready to recognize the Russian zone of Germany as an autonomous state, too.

In so doing, it would be virtually necessary to withdraw the 300,000 man Red army which has lived off the fat of East Germany since 1945.

Farmers Interested—The future acreage of wheat that may be marketed under purchase agreements and crop loans may be at stake this week. The PMA office at 440 North Church street is urging all farmers to record their 1951-52 and 53 wheat acreage with them before May 29. If wheat acreage allotments become necessary in 1954 these figures will be used as a basis for your wheat allowance.
