Woods Strike In Stalemate

Lebanon—Hope for an early settlement of the current CIO woods strike appeared dim Thursday morning, although two meetings were slated soon between striking union members and employer groups.

More than 2,000 CIO woodworkers in the northwest are for the 5 cent hourly wage increase that Weyerhaeuser Timber company and a few other operators have offered.

Tuesday the 115-man crew at Santiam Lumber company started picketing the mill at Lebanon, and an estimated 95 men employed by the Snow Peak logging operations joined the strike movement. Shortly before they walked out, 550 left the Wilamette National Lumber company's mill and logging operations at Foster, and the Santiam lumber mill at Sweet Home.

John Ball, IWA-CIO business agent of the Lebanon local, said another 400 to 500 men go on strike in this area. Ball said that if the two local operations were to go on strike, it would mean total payment of about $48 per week more for Santiam mill, and $34 per week more by Snow Peak.
