

Ex-Governor Gardiner of Maine Dies in Crash

Allentown, Pa. (AP)—A private plane fell apart and crashed into a wooded hillside yesterday, killing a former governor of Maine and two of his friends.

The dead were William Tudor Gardiner, 61, of Bath, Me., and Boston, hero of a famous World War II exploit and Maine's chief executive from 1929 to 1932.

Edward E. Chase, 60, of Cape Elizabeth, Me., a state senator, investment broker and brother of author Mary Ellen Chase.

Edwin S. Burt, 60, of South Portland, Me., a Portland wholesale grocer.

The three long-time friends were flying north of this eastern-central Pennsylvania city, the plane, flying at 9,000 feet, fell apart. Rain and heavy clouds were reported in the area.

Gardiner, a colonel in World War II, won the Legion of Merit for exploits in Italy.

He was 81 when he and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, now commanding the 8th Army in Korea, made a daring and hazardous trip into German-held Rome before American forces invaded Italy in 1953.

In full uniform, except for caps, they landed from a British submarine, motored to Rome and spent 20 hours under the Germans' noses in conferences with Marshal Pietro Badoglio. They gained a pledge of loyalty to the Allies and information that vitally affected the course of the war.

Seek Dismissal of Sweet Home Charge

Albany — A motion for dismissal of the case of the City of Sweet Home vs. Wiley T. Stockett on one count charging obstruction of a street and for affirmation of his conviction on another count was filed in circuit court Thursday.

On the one count, it was explained by counsel representing the city and Stockett, the defendant has agreed to pay a $25 fine.

Stockett originally was charged on four counts each defining a type of obstruction illegalized by city ordinance, but two were dismissed in city court where he was fined $25 by Judge Ed Russell.

Safety Prize Won By Salem Trucker

A Salem truck driver, George Millikin, employed by Capital City Transfer Company, is winner of first prize in a nationwide "safety idea" contest.

The idea, for which Millikin was awarded a prize of $100 in cash, was that of securing abrasive paper to the surface of "walk boards" to prevent dories or workmen from slipping as they load and unload trucks.

A walk-board is a moveable inclined plane from truck bed to ground for the moving of freight.

The National Mayflower Warehousemen's Association sponsored the contest, and announcement of Millikin as the winner was made by Russell Pratt, operator Capital City Transfer, who said Millikin had been with the company four years.
