

Human Yo-Yo Arrives in Italy

Rome, (AP)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, the human yo-yo, was back in the Western World Monday with a sharp case of camera shyness.

The man without a country who shuttled helplessly on a ferryboat, alighted from a Royal Dutch Airlines plane from Hong Kong. Almost his first words were to an approaching photographer: "Don't make any pictures or I'll break your camera."

Newsmen learned that O'Brien, still without a passport, traveled here with a certificate of the International Refugee Organization. With him on the same plane were another 30 refugees, mostly Russians, nearly all bound for South America.

Later, O'Brien melted enough to say that he considered himself an American and that he "just wanted to be left alone."

"My voyaging isn't over yet," he said. "I still have to get to Brazil."

O'Brien's wife—a White Russian—is waiting for him there.

Estell to Head Chest Campaign

Silvertown — Quintin Estell, young Silvertown attorney, has been appointed campaign chairman for the Silvertown Community Chest drive this year. Harry Sherwood, president, made the announcement.

He also announced the appointment of the campaign executive committee consisting of Maurice Schorenberg, Olaf Paulson, Jr., and Lenard Kephart.

"I believe the community is fortunate in having these men accept the responsibility of this important task and I am sure the co-workers and the citizens will give them every support possible," said Mr. Sherwood.

The Chest organization has two major remaining items that of the budget and setting the dates of the campaign. These will be announced soon. Detailed organization of the campaign will begin immediately.

Over 100 Varieties Of Peaches in Test

Peach growers, processors, and fieldmen will see more than 100 varieties of peaches on test at the Oregon State college Peach Field Day, August 14, at the experimental farm near Corvallis, according to C. O. Rawlings, OSC extension horticulture specialist.

Exhibits and discussions of peach insects and diseases, control methods and materials, and a fruit thinning demonstration are scheduled for the program beginning at 1:30. The Lewis-Brown experiment farm is located on the Peoria road about three miles from Corvallis in Linn county.

Peach variety testing is under the direction of Dr. Quentin Zielinski, OSC horticulture researcher, who has gathered varieties from throughout the world to check their adaptability to Oregon conditions, to note tree and fruiting habits, yields, relative resistance to leaf curl, freezing and canning qualities, and use for local fresh markets. They are mostly yellow-flesh freestone varieties.

Mrs. Bryan Dismore and nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, all of Eugene.

Frontier Days Queen Award

Sweet Home — The winner of the 1953 Frontier Days queen contest will receive a special $100 college scholarship, it was decided by Frontier Days steering committee members here last week.

Each of the seven candidates is continuing button and ticket sales with an eye toward qualifying for selection as queen. Sales end Saturday, Aug. 8, a few hours before the queen's announcement ball that evening in the Foster community hall.

The four candidates who sell the most buttons and tickets will be judged on the basis of beauty, poise, and personality. After the queen is selected, all six of the other girls will serve as princesses on her court.

Coronation ceremonies will be held immediately preceding the first "Chips and Splinters" show Thursday night, August 13.

Feeder Lambs Still Have Market Chance

A large percentage of feeder lambs in Western Oregon were not fattened out for the June market because of unfavorable feed conditions this season but may still make the market with the proper care, says H. A. Lindgren, extension animal husbandry specialist at Oregon State college.

Thrifty lambs can be put in good market condition in 40 or 50 days with grain and good pasture, according to Lindgren. Such grains as corn, barley or wheat are satisfactory and can be fed whole. A combination of grain and one-third Austrian field peas will also do the job.

The specialist notes that lambs on full feed will consume from one to one and one-half pounds of grain daily and should gain from one-third to one-half pound daily on such a ration.

Lambs will put on faster gains and utilize feed better if they are sheared before going on pasture. A salt-phosphoric mixture to keep down the parasite load, and access to shade and water will step up the gain.

Lindgren states that present prices for feeder lambs in comparison to fat lamb prices provides a satisfactory margin to encourage such feeding practices.

Two From Here Join Inspector Staff

Joining the instructor-inspector staff of the Marine Corps Reserves here recently were Gerald B. Smith, HM2, and Staff Sgt. John H. Read, Marine Corps Reserves.

Smith, whose home is at Route 2, Box 206, Woodburn, is a veteran of duty in the Pacific with the Navy in World War II and was recalled for active duty at Keyport, Wash., until his release from active duty in June, 1953.

Reporting again for active duty with the Navy July 25 of this year, Smith at that date joined the instructor-inspector staff here.

A veteran of service with the regular Marine Corps, Read joined that branch of the service in March, 1948, and was on active duty until March, 1952, when he received his discharge.
