Lebanon Blood Day Set for August 12

Lebanon—The next blood drive in Linn county will be held in Lebanon on Aug. 12, announces Ruth Parton, blood program chairman. Donors will report at the Elks building between 1:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Parton emphasized the great need for blood during the summer months when all possible is being processed to extract gamma globulin, the serum used in prevention of polio. A great many doses of this preventative have been given to children in polio epidemic areas and the supply is much diminished, she pointed out.

The National Geographic society says natives of the Marquesas Islands in the Pacific have no firearms but harpoon wild cattle for food.
