Recent Lunar Eclipse Return Engagement of Prior One

By J. HUGH FRUETT

Astronomer, Extension Division, Oregon Higher Education System

From Mr. O. H. of Rainier, Oregon, comes this question: "Was the recent lunar eclipse on the morning of July 26 a return of the one of the evening of July 15, 1935, when for so long the moon was blacked out?"

Yes, we may call it a return engagement of the evening show of 18 years ago. In very ancient times the Chaldeans learned from observations that very similar eclipses recur after certain periods of time. They named this period the saros. Later, they passed this knowledge on to other nations. The reason for the recurrence was not known, but from past observations the ancient astronomers were able to foretell eclipses quite accurately.
