A new wing design with an extended leading edge replacing the conventional slat enabled the F-86 to outspeed and out-maneuver the Russian-built plane, the Scripps-Howard newspaper reported.

New President for U. of O. in September

Portland (AP)—A new president of the University of Oregon may be appointed at a special meeting of the State Board of Higher Education the first week in September.

Dr. R. E. Kleinsorge, president of the board, said Tuesday that might leave the university with an acting president for at least part of the fall term.

The new president will succeed Dr. Harry K. Newburn who has resigned to become director of the Ford Foundation radio and television center.

25 Rescued From Burning Freighter

Boston (AP)—One woman passenger and the 24 man crew of the burning Danish freighter, Eise Basse, were rescued today off the Newfoundland coast by a passing British vessel, the Coast Guard reported.

Coast Guard officials said the rescue was made by the U. S. Cornerbrook, owned by the Newfoundland Shipping Company.

The Cornerbrook, a 5,000-ton pulp and paper carrier, radioed that the Eise Basse was still burning after the rescue had been accomplished.

Sales Tax for Schools Use

Portland (AP)—An Oregon Education Association conference was told Tuesday that Oregon will need a sales tax to help finance its school costs.

Clarence Hines, superintendent of Eugene schools, said the state would need 80 million dollars for new school buildings and 16 million for operating costs during the next five years.

He said that 35 per cent of present school costs are met by state income tax receipts and 65 per cent by property taxes. "The most logical" source of additional revenue, he said, "is a sales tax of the kind which is used in our neighboring states."

He said that 25.3 per cent of the state's population is less than 15 years old—the highest percentage in the nation. The total school population of the state now is 290,000, he said. He predicted that would rise to 365,000 by 1958.

France takes Emergency Measures With Strikers

Paris (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel's cabinet approved emergency measures to prevent threats to public order by France's 2,000,000 strikers today and upheld his decision not to negotiate with them until they go back to work.

The action was taken at a full dress cabinet meeting with President Vincent Auriol presiding, despite a demand by a powerful group in the cabinet that Laniel retreat from a "too tough" stand.

The ministers who made the demand are members of the Popular Republican party in Laniel's coalition cabinet. It was this party that by withdrawing its support, toppled France's two preceding premiers, Rene Mayer and Antoine Pinay.

Emergency measures being taken by the government, in the belief that Communist labor union leaders may order their men into the streets to riot, include the massing of tanks, paratroopers, infantry and anti-riot police in the Paris area.

Socialist party leaders joined the Republicans in appealing to Laniel to make one more attempt to settle the nationwide strikes before taking tough measures.

The Socialists, largest party in Parliament but not represented in the government, warned that any repressive action by the government might sweep the desperate workers into control of the Communists.

Troops, volunteers and requisitioned workers maintained some essential operations in strikebound railroads, mines, municipal transport, gas, electricity, mail, telephone and telegraph services.
