Search Resumed for Lost Plane Off Alaska

Ketchikan, Alaska (AP) — Wednesday's air search only 12 percent effective would improve Thursday and be "very good" Friday.

Wednesday's search covered 14,050 square miles from Annette to Smitbers, B. C., without turning up a trace of the vanished plane. The Coast Guard said four surface vessels checked all debris and oil slicks reported in the area without finding any special clue to indicate they might be from the missing plane.

The first sighting of an oil slick was at the mouth of the sound Wednesday. Two fishermen also told of having seen a two-engine plane flying up the 15-mile long sound from 2 to 3 1/2 hours after the Monday night takeoff.

The search is one of the north country's largest. Twenty-eight American and Canadian military planes were reported in the search, most of them over the British Columbia flight route. About a dozen small plane pilots were searching the Alaska coastal area.

Senators View Valley Projects

Portland (AP) — Four members of the Senate Public Works Committee inspected Willamette Valley projects Thursday, part of a general Northwest study.

Sen. Francis S. Coxe, South Dakota Republican, will join three Democratic senators, Dennis Chavez, N. Mex., Spessard L. Holland, Fla., and John C. Stennis, Miss., who arrived here Wednesday.

The three urged completion of Columbia Valley power development without regard to political issues.

Holland said Columbia River benefits "affect all the people, Republicans as well as Democrats. It's not a political matter, but is an economic and human matter. It's a question of fact as to each project. Each is different; some can be developed privately, some publicly."

Chavez said, "I'm not interested in the politics of the matter. I would like to see the Columbia developed under any system."

The committee members are completing a survey of Northwest river and harbor projects. They will return Thursday night to Portland to leave for Alaska to study projects there.

August Lean for Bridge Players

August was a lean month for Salem members of the Elks Duplicate Bridge club. Only one of the 12 master points awarded by the club for top scores in the main monthly competitions went to local participants. Mr. and Mrs. Duane Pinkerton of Gladstone and Mrs. Lulu Horton of Mrs. Dan Creary of Portland carried off the honors this week, while second place for Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Newsom was the best the Salem players could do.

Other points went to Mrs. Myrtle Mount of Oregon City and John Pugh of Shedd, Mrs. Leona Taylor and Mrs. Mona Yoder, Mrs. C. C. Gabriel and Mrs. Dorothy Remmey of Brownsville, Mrs. Walter A. Barach and Ray Kemp, Mr. F. C. Lutz and Walter M. Cline, and W. F. Leary and Ellis H. Jones.

In the summer series W. M. Cline vaulted into the lead by winning with Mrs. Lloyd Jones. Top score on the other side of the boards went to Mrs. Harry Wiedmer and Mrs. C. B. Bentson. Next on the series with only two tournaments remaining are Mrs. C. L. Newsom and Mrs. Elsie Day. Others gaining points this week included Mrs. C. C. Gabriel and Mrs. W. A. Barach, Mrs. L. W. Frasier and Mrs. George Rein, Mrs. E. E. Boring and Mrs. Paul F. Burris, Mrs. F. C. Lutz and Charles Tambling, and Mrs. Robert Burns and E. H. Jones.

Baseball Star Critically Ill

Sacramento (AP) — Jim Tabor, former major and Pacific Coast league baseball star, was still in critical condition in Sacramento hospital today following a heart attack.

Tabor still holds the major league record for hitting two bases-loaded home runs in one day. He played for the Boston Red Sox and was sold to Los Angeles by the Philadelphia Phillies in 1947. He subsequently played with the Sacramento Solons and Portland Beavers before he retired from baseball in 1952.

A 64-man varsity football squad, one of the smallest in years, has been invited back for early fall practice at Michigan State.
