ACORNS FROM THE Oak Room
WITH DEL MILNE

Now that the fashion luncheon and show are over, I can get back to the Oak Room. This thing of having fashion, luchoons, Oak Room, dining room, lounge room, etc., is just like having (or I imagine it is just like having) four wives. I have to talk out of four corners of my mouth and sometimes one or the other is neglected and jealousy appears. I have not mentioned the Oak Room for some time and maybe that is why it's so popular. People seem to want to find out about the thick slices of beef au jus and the tantalizing oak charcoal broiled steaks without being told about them. One lady last week said she patronized the Oak Room just to enjoy the wonderful salads with Chef Ed's special dressing. Whether you are entertaining your wife or a business buyer or giving an anniversary party, the Oak Room is certainly the answer.
