

Future Farmers Ready For State Fair Competition

Future Farmers of America exhibitors, some 400 strong, will be on hand when the Oregon State Fair opens Sept. 8, to compete for $3500 in premiums and special awards, according to O. I. Paulson, State Director of vocational education.

The Valley Packing company of Salem is opening their pig feeding contest to FFA boys for the first time this year. Pigs of 3 fat hogs will be given a live score and a representative pig will be killed and given a carcass score and cutting test. These scores plus a score on the record book will determine the winners.

A new beef plaque for the best FFA beef herd of five breeding animals from two or more boys in a chapter will be awarded the best swine herd by the Ladd & Bush branch of the U.S. National Bank of Portland; a third new plaque, given by the U.S. National Bank of Portland, will go to the best FFA sheep flock. More than 60 FFA livestock and dairy judging teams will vie for the new trophies offered the top teams by the United States National Bank of Portland on Saturday, September 12. The Salem Kiwanis club is providing 14 large banners for the outstanding exhibitors of livestock and crops.

Crop exhibitors will receive their share of prize money with a trophy and plaque offered the best FFA small seed growers by the Jenks-White Seed company of Salem, and a trophy for the best FFA grain grower by Buchanan-Cellers Grain company of McMinnville.

Two Jersey calves will be awarded FFA boys on Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Couche, Sherwood, members of the Oregon Jersey Cattle club and by the Fred Meyer company of Portland. A $100 purchase certificate to apply on the purchase of a Guernsey of his choice will be awarded another lucky FFA boy on Monday of fair week.

Keen competition is expected among FFA chapters for the $100 cash prize and plaque for the top winner of the Oregon Bankers association sponsored chapter farm mechanics exhibit. This exhibit has grown to be a favorite in the FFA division.

Medical Exams For Children

Since health examinations are required of all pupils new to the Salem schools as well as all children entering the first and seventh grades, parents are being urged to have the matter attended to immediately.

Family physicians should be contacted for the physicals and blanks for his purpose may be secured from the Marion County Department of Health. The medical record should be presented at the school where the pupil registers.

Under the law parents may have their children exempted from the examination on the basis of religious beliefs and forms covering such exemptions are available.

The school administration requests that pupils secure their classroom materials well in advance of the opening of school Sept. 21. All stores in Salem handling school supplies have the necessary lists for inspection of parents and children.

A DIRTY TRICK

Rockville, Conn. (AP)—Authorities let a prisoner, William T. Lanahan, saw away at the jail window for six days before telling him they not only had been watching him but took pictures of him at work with a telescopic lens.

Congregationals Call Dr. Keiser

By unanimous decision, the membership of the First Congregational church Wednesday night issued a call to Dr. Julian J. Keiser, pastor of the Warren Avenue church of the denomination in Chicago.

Dr. Keiser, son-in-law of the late Dr. Seth R. Huntington, will assume the local pastorate early next December. He appeared in the pulpit of the Salem church August 18. Dr. Keiser has a wife and four children; is a graduate of Chicago Theological seminary, which gave him an honorary doctorate last June. Prior to his present ministry in Chicago, Dr. Keiser was pastor of Mayflower church, Minneapolis for three years.

Federal Gambling Tax Held to Be Flop

Cleveland (AP)—T. Coleman Andrews, commissioner of internal revenue, says the government gambling tax has proven a flop.

In an interview yesterday, he said enforcement of the wagering tax laws has been too costly and the proceeds too small.
