It was a chill party for the members of the Community Builders class of the Four Corners church held at the Sunnyview Ave. home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holler in Swegle community.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dusenberry, Victor Jr. and Gary; Mrs. Jane Scott, Jimmy and Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, David, Danny and Jonny; Rev. Victor Loucks; Mr. and Mrs. George Van Leeuwen, Charles and Mary; Mr. and Mrs. Holler, Steven, Douglas and Frank.

Another home added to the list of those being remodeled this summer is that of the Leonard Harms on Sunnyview Ave.

The Halverson bean field which for some time seemed to be over its best days of picking is taking on new life and beans are good again. There was picking in several fields on Sunday. The smaller fields have their regular crews that are keeping up with the growth.

Others elected at the organization's 25th annual convention here were Keith Rhodes of Lebanon, chairman of the executive committee, and H. E. Larson, Portland, re-elected state national director.

Convention speakers included Walter M. Sheldon of Chicago, president of the national organization, and Robert B. Taylor, Oregon insurance commissioner.

More Praise Comes to City

Salem has been praised as a convention city by the immediate past president of the Western Collectors Conference, Wynne P. Grier, formerly of Salem and now of Medford.

In his correspondence Grier told the hotel he was amazed at the lack of complaints and that he had heard many compliments. He further stated that their national president, Carl Williams, had noted that his room was finer than the one he had just left in San Francisco and so much better than the one he had at the national convention in June in Atlanta, Ga.
