Some Notations . . .

By M. L. F.

One of the beautifully arranged parties of the week was the informal coffee for which Mrs. P. D. Quisenberry and Mrs. Paul R. Hendricks were hostesses Friday morning at the Quisenberry home. . . . The sunny day was perfect for the guests to enjoy the terrace and colorful gardens. . . . Punch was served on the terrace, guests later taking their coffee out in the gardens where tables were set here and there. . . . A special attraction in the gardens was the fountain at one side, a continuous billow of bubbles floating up from the waters. . . . The coffee table was in the dining room, set up against the window. . . . It was covered with a moss green cloth. . . . The centerpiece added a touch of fall. . . . It was a green pottery rooster with wheat arranged in the top, fruits, gourds, little squashes and artichoke greens encircling the base. . . .

Among those greeted during our call—including several of those in the group assisting—were Mrs. Linn C. Smith, Mrs. Prince W.
