Five Oregonians, including two missing air force men who had never been reported as prisoners of war, were among POWs released by the Communists Saturday night in the final exchange in Korea.

The list included Capt. Harold D. Kaschko, Paisley, A-1C Eugene E. Evers, Forest Grove; Capt. David E. Penny, Klamath Falls; S-Sgt. Richard Jones, Portland, and Capt. Theodore R. Harris, now of Van Nuys, Calif., but a former resident of Gresham.

Capt. Harris was the last prisoner to pass through the gate at the close of the exchange.

Capt. Penny and Airman Evers had both been listed as missing in action for more than a year.

Penny's wife, Bess, was speechless when she learned her husband had been released. Penny, a bombardier—observer in a B-26, was lost when his bomber was shot down over Korea June 7, 1952. The family had tried since that time to learn whether the captain was alive, but to no avail.

Pro-American

Trailing far behind were the opposition Socialists with 150 seats.

Adenauer also could count nominally on the support of the 18 seats won by the German Party, the third member of his government coalition since 1949. Doubts were expressed, however, that he would include this faction in his new government.

Catastrophe for Kremlin
The election outcome was a catastrophe for the Kremlin and a triumph for the United States. U.S. Secretary of State Dulles had given Adenauer his open endorsement. Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov had tried to scare the Germans away from the iron-willed, 77-year-old chancellor with threats of riots and warnings that Soviet-occupied East Germany could never become re-attached to a West Germany rearmored on America's side.

Despite Communist plots to wreck the voting with riots and sabotage, the election went off quietly and without a whisper of Red violence. West German police had arrested 7,500 Communist thugs sent over the border in the past week from East Germany. They also mobilized a civilian army of four million to help guard the polls.

Those Communist agents who got past the border quit cold.

Girl Drowns in Silverton Pool

Silverton—A father who could not swim nearly lost his life Sunday night in a vain effort to save the life of his small daughter who drowned in a swimming hole in Silver Creek near the city park.

Norris had taken several of his eight children to the stream to swim when the girl disappeared. He leaped into the deep pool in search of the child, but soon was in a drowning condition himself.

Police Officer Martin Kassebaum, attracted to the scene by the cries of the other children, rescued Norris from the pool.

The body of the girl was removed from the deep hole 25 minutes later by Darwin Kelsey, 15. Efforts to revive the child failed.

Stevens to Talk With McCarthy

Denver (P)—Secretary of the Army Stevens, a surprise visitor at President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters, said Monday he plans to confer in Washington Tuesday with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) regarding the lawmaker's inquiry into whether Communists have infiltrated the Army.

Stevens came to Eisenhower's office from a Montana vacation as the President was conferring with Secretary of State Dulles on foreign policy matters.

Stevens told newsmen that the reason for his stop in Denver was simply to return to Washington by plane with Dulles after the Dulles appointment with the President was concluded later in the day.

Asked whether he planned to see Eisenhower regarding the McCarthy inquiry, Stevens replied he did not know. He added that he had very little information about the inquiry—the extent of it being "a little item" which he saw in a Montana newspaper.
