State Fair continues to be the main interest for the capital, the Labor Day holiday yesterday drawing many from Salem to the big show.

This is a case of impatience or economy or pride in the home cook: Anyway, in the line leading to the scones booth, Monday, a man was overheard plaintively asking his wife: "Can't you make as good or better at home?"

In one of the races yesterday one of the lady spectators was heard to remark: "Time O'Day, that seems funny odds — 3-22." When her husband explained she was looking at the time of day on the board, she shot back with: "Oh, I see Patrick O'Day is one of the horses, I thought maybe Time O'Day was too."

Among Salem folk spotted in the grandstands and out on the apron for the races Monday: Mrs. Carl W.
