Britain Pledges Funds for Korea

London (AP)—Britain has pledged $22,400,000 this year toward a United Nations program of reconstruction in Korea, it was announced Tuesday.

Sir Arthur Rucker, European representative of the United Nations Korea Reconstruction Agency UNKRA, told a news conference the British contribution will form part of a 130 million dollar fund being raised by next June.

He said 28 U.N. countries have promised to support the program. Five states outside the U.N. have also offered help. They are Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Vietnam, Indochina and the Republic of Monaco, which has given a sum of $286 in cash.

UNKRA intends to call upon the West German Federal Republic—which wants to re-establish itself as a selling nation in Asia—for a sizeable contribution too.

The United States, by far the biggest contributor, has promised to pitch in with at least 65 per cent of the target figure.

Eugene Youth Visited the King

New York (AP)—A 14-year-old American boy returned Tuesday from a meeting with King Gustav Adolf VI of Sweden.

Teddy Lee Berg, of 1583 Coburg Road, Eugene, Ore., said he talked with the king for about three minutes and took 10 photographs of him last June 27 at Varmland, site of the king's estate, just after the king made a speech at the unveiling of a monument.

The youth said he traveled to Europe alone with money saved from raising pigs and calves and selling Portland newspapers.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Berg, was asked what his parents thought about his going alone.

"They thought I would make it or else they would not have let me go," he replied.

YUGO SLAVS HIT BULGARS

London (AP)—Yugoslav soldiers fired on Bulgarian frontier guards today when they ambushed and wounded a Yugoslav soldier on border duty, the official Yugoslav agency Tanjug said. The Yugoslavs forced the Bulgars back from the border, Tanjug reported.

HAMMERED IN METAL

This figure, hand-hammered in metal by Hermann A. Galli of Grants Pass, is on display in the art department at Oregon State Fair. Galli has other pieces in his display. He learned the craft in Switzerland, and holds a vocational instructor's certificate from the University of California.

H. Galli, Coppersmith, Has Interesting Show at Fair

"I'm not an artist. I'm an artisan." That's the way Hermann A. Galli, who has an exhibit at the State Fair, describes himself. But those who have seen his work will say that he is very much of both. This is his first year at the Oregon fair.

Galli, who is here from Grants Pass, is a coppersmith, but does work in other metals too—silver, brass and steel—and he's something of a specialist in what is known to the craft as chasings.

When you walk up the stairs to the first landing in the art exhibit building at the fair you see one of his works right in front of you—a life-size likeness of a strong man, a weight lifter perhaps, made of hand-hammered brass.

Galli has six pieces on display in the department. There's a brass bell hammered out of a 90 mm shell, and from the same shell a water urn 28 inches high. There is a tray of brass and a copper table lamp.

Galli learned the craft in his native Switzerland, and from the University of California he has a vocational instructor's certificate. He hopes to form a class and teach the craft in his part of Oregon.

Employment on Coast High

San Francisco (AP)—Industrial and commercial employment on the Pacific Coast reached an all-time high in July, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor reported Wednesday.

The bureau's figures showed 5,052,000 workers holding jobs in mid-July—3,000 more than the previous high set in September, 1952.

July employment for the three coastal states was 178,000 above July a year ago, and 41,000 above June of this year, said Max D. Kossoris, BLS regional director.

Oregon reported 2.5 per cent gain in jobs from June to July, the highest increase of the three states. Washington gained 1.3 per cent and California 1 per cent. Most of the increase was accounted for by seasonal food processing industries.

The report also showed that average hourly wages of production workers declined 1 cent in California to $1.97; 2 cents in Oregon to $2.14 and 4 cents in Washington to $2.01.

58,600 Pupils Enroll in Portland Schools

Portland (AP)—Some 58,600 pupils enrolled in Portland public schools on opening day Tuesday. That is about 4,600 more than registered on the first day last year.

Officials expect the final enrollment will climb to about 61,000.

Catholic schools also showed an increase of about 300, registering nearly 19,000.

Lions to Tour Woolen Mills

Initiating a program theme of "Know Salem Industries Better," the West Salem Lions will enjoy a conducted tour of the Thomas K. Woolen Mills, Wednesday evening, and following their usual dinner meeting.

Thomas Kay, manager of the mill, will speak briefly on the past history of this early-day industrial activity of Salem, and at the conclusion of his talk, the party will convene at the mill on South 12th street, where the many operations of woolen cloth manufacture will be explained by Mr. Kay.

Program chairman, Junior Eckley, has made the statement, that most of Salem's residents actually know too little about the many industries of Salem that provide several millions of dollars of annual pay-

Gov. Warren Backed by Beck

Los Angeles (AP)—Dave Beck, general president of the AFL Teamsters Union, says he hopes President Eisenhower will appoint California Gov. Earl Warren to the U. S. Supreme Court.

At a news conference Tuesday Beck said he feels Warren is the logical choice to succeed the late Chief Justice Vinson.

Beck also said he expects to see the CIO unite with the AFL within a year and that most of the pressure in the interest of unity is coming from the CIO.

Woodburn Sets Registration

Woodburn — A short session of the Woodburn public schools to complete student registration has been called for Friday, Sept. 11, by Superintendent Frank P. Doerfler. Regular classes will begin on Monday, Sept. 14.

The registration session will begin at 9 a.m. and students will be required to attend only about one hour. No lunches will be necessary.

Buses will pick up students in the rural area. The time schedules and routes will be the same as at the close of school last spring.

A new insurance plan is being inaugurated this year for all students at Woodburn high school. One dollar will be added to the present student body fee to cover the student's share of the cost of the program. The insurance will cover students for all school activities, including athletics, from the time they leave home in the morning for school until they return, provided they go by a direct route.

All children entering the first grade in the Woodburn public schools this fall will be required to bring a birth certificate. First grade students are required by law to be six years of age on or before November 15, 1953.

The three day training program for Woodburn teachers got under way Tuesday morning.
