Dean Pleased With Results

Taking into consideration the number of students who enrolled in the law college of Willamette university in 1950, Dean Seward P. Reese feels that the graduates of last spring did "exceptionally well" in connection with the state bar examination where they were admitted to practice.

The 1950 class consisted of 40 law students, of whom 21 were admitted to practice. This is a percentage of 52 1/2, which is well above the national average, states Dean Reese.

One of the men who failed before the state bar, was considered a brilliant student, but his lack of application proved his downfall.

Of the five law schools in the northwest, Willamette now rates second only to the University of Washington in the matter of registration and the number who are admitted to practice. University of Montana is third, University of Oregon fourth and University of Idaho fifth.

Sixty three persons have been accepted for law college work at Willamette this fall. However, Dean Reese states there is bound to be a shrinkage before class work starts. Nevertheless he believes the 1953 class will have close to 50.

Response Good To Farm Plea

Appreciation of the response on the part of the citizenry of Salem and vicinity to the plea of farmers of the valley in connection with the harvesting of seasonal crops, is expressed in a statement by Ted Hobart, president of the Farm Labor Council.

A letter addressed to "The People of Salem and surrounding area," states: "In behalf of the Willamette Farm Council, I wish to express appreciation for your efforts in helping with the bean harvest."

"The growers greatly appreciate your response this past week to their plea to help salvage their crop. You, in turn did much for the city of Salem and the Willamette valley.

"Your efforts are still needed at this time for many beans remain to be picked in the Salem, Silverton, Independence and Stayton areas. If you wish further information please call the Oregon State employment office, 39288, for bean fields which can use your help."
