S. P. spends another $3.8 million for more C.T.C. (CENTRALIZED TRAFFIC CONTROL) to enlarge Oregon's rail freight capacity

Expenditure of $3,803,000 to complete the installation of C.T.C. (Centralized Traffic Control) over the busiest section of Southern Pacific lines in Oregon, between Klamath Falls and Eugene, Oregon, has just been authorized and work will start shortly.

The entire installation, therefore, from Klamath Falls to Eugene, 194 miles, involves a total expenditure of $6,264,000... another investment in the tremendous total made since the end of World War II to make our good railroad a better one. It represents our continuing purpose to provide Oregon and the other states we serve with the finest freight and passenger service in America.

Installation of C. T. C. operation between Klamath Falls and Crescent Lake, 99 miles, was started late last year and will be completed in November at a cost of $2,461,000. The work just authorized covers the installation over the next 95 miles from Crescent Lake to Eugene, concentration point for lumber shipments from western Oregon.
