Reds Accuse

Swedish Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, commission chairman, said communist Poland delegates accused the Americans of kidnapping Jan Hajdukiewicz, a Polish interpreter who ducked from his inspection team into American hands as a plane warmed up to take him back to Red Korea Wednesday.

Grafstrom said the Polish delegate threatened to lodge a strong protest, probably Saturday.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen at Seoul, he wanted no more of communism, which he termed "the subjugation of all life... Cruel."

The other Red denunciations were broadcast by Peiping radio, often a weathervane for official moves to come.

Peiping said 4,579 Red prisoners returned in the exchange just ended have been hospitalized because of "physical and mental torture at the hands of the Americans."

Condemning what it termed "ghastly examples of American brutality... American torture chamber methods," Peiping said "a shocking number" of the 75,799 repatriates were suffering from various diseases. It said others were "gassed, bayoneted and stoned" during the exchange.

Final Homage

As Truman came abreast of Eisenhower, the President nodded. Truman thrust out a hand and Eisenhower grasped it. It was the first face-to-face meeting of the two since the Jan. 2 inauguration and change of administration.

A bright sun streamed through stained glass windows and the notes of a great organ flooded through the cathedral as the services began. Overhead in the unfinished south transept, pigeons fluttered through the scaffolding.

The services were brief and solemn. They followed the regular Episcopal ritual from the Book of Common Prayer, except for a special prayer by Bishop Angus Dunn, who officiated.

Under a blanket of red roses supplied by the Supreme Court, the mahogany casket was brought from a downtown funeral home to the cathedral.

The pari-mutuel take at the races continued to be above last year, with Wednesday the third largest day this year, the take being $91,738. A year ago it was $78,984. Top day this year was Monday when it was $168,336 and the second was Saturday, $107,711.

Supreme court to control lower courts: Chief Justice Earl C. Latourette shown administering oath of office to Jonel C. Hill, administrative assistant to the chief justice. Under a law passed by the 1953 legislature, the chief justice is given authority to limit the time a matter before a circuit court may be held under advisement and further powers that is expected to eliminate congestion in many of the lower courts of the state.

close that day. Future Farmers will have their livestock and dairy judging contest in the morning and their poultry judging and announcement of results of judging contests in the afternoon.

On the Saturday schedule for 4-H clubbers are the wool sewing contest, demonstration contest of champions, dollar dinner contests and the livestock awards program.

800 Convicts

Warden John Cranor returned Thursday morning, cutting short a vacation fishing trip. He said approximately 700 prisoners in four cell blocks were locked in their cells "and will stay there." The prisoners received breakfast in their cells instead of the mess halls.

Prisoner Strangles Self
As they moved through the cell blocks in a clean-up program, officers discovered one inmate had strangled himself in his cell but the warden did not link his death with the fire and riot.

He said the man, Elmer Warren Kerr, 30, was despondent because the Parole Board had turned down his petition for parole.

Kerr apparently tied a shirt around his neck and to the bed and leaned against the noose until he strangled, said Cranor. He was serving time for grand larceny from Skagit county.

The disturbance at the evening meal began about two hours after the unexplained fire whipped through the prison's metals plant. More than a million license plates destined for Washington State automobile use in 1954 were destroyed.

Ohio Society Picnic—The Ohio Society will hold its annual picnic at Laurelhurst Park in Portland Sunday, Sept. 20, starting at 2 p.m. All former residents of the Buckeye State are invited. They are advised to bring food baskets, but coffee will be served.

Circuit Court

Hill, the new administrative assistant, will visit all circuit courts in the state and under powers granted by the law examine dockets of the courts and ascertain the length of time cases have been under advisement.

The circuit court judges and clerks are required to make reports to the chief justice and moreover, the law makes it the duty of all circuit judges and clerks to obey all orders issued by the chief justice.

At a meeting of the Oregon Bar association which sponsored the court reform law in the legislature, circuit judges attending will be introduced to Hill by the chief justice. At this meeting, September 17, Latourette will outline details of the new program.

The new law strengthens authority of the chief justice to assign judges to outside districts where work of the court is heavy.

Under this law, Chief Justice Latourette feels certain that congestion in many of the circuit courts can be greatly relieved to the benefit of both the bar and the litigants.

Hill graduated from the St. Paul college of law and was admitted to the bar in Minnesota in 1951. He came to Oregon the next year and was admitted to the bar here in an attorney's examination the same year.

Immediately after he graduated, Hill was on the editorial staff of the West Publishing company, St. Paul, publishers of law books. He is married and has three children, and resides in Salem.
