

Pagenstecher New Head Of Republican Club Here

ELECTED

Gerhard Pagenstecher, who Tuesday night was elected president of the Marion County Chapter, Oregon Republican Clubs.

New president for the Marion County chapter, Oregon Republican Clubs, is Gerhard Pagenstecher, Salem businessman. Elections featured the meeting of the group Tuesday night at the Senator hotel. He succeeds Lloyd Girod of Stayton, president for the past year. Corps of officers serving with Pagenstecher includes: Leonard A. Rowan, first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph B. Felton, second vice-president; Edwin H. Armstrong, third vice-president; Mrs. Robert B. Ebersole, secretary; Richard Denton, treasurer; W. W. Chadwick, sergeant-at-arms. George Haley, state president of the clubs, told of plans for activities on the state level this coming year. A new club for Wallowa county is to be organized at Enterprise next week, and on December 5, state officers meet in Coos Bay at which time new groups are to be organized in Coos and Curry counties.

Announcement of the executive board for the Marion county chapter will be made later by the new officers. At the meeting last night the group gave a vote of thanks to Girod for his work the past two years as president.

4-H Officers Meet Dec. 5

Officers of Salem 4-H clubs will meet for their annual city-wide training meeting on Saturday morning, December 5, from 10 to 12 o'clock, at the State School for the Blind, Ross Huckins, president of Salem 4-H Leaders' Association announced Tuesday.

A woodworking club led by Everett Wilcox will demonstrate typical meeting procedure. Presidents and vice-presidents will receive special training under the leadership of Anthol Riney, county 4-H extension agent.

Joe Myers, Linn county extension agent, will lead the session for secretaries and treasurers. News reporters will meet with June Goetze, information specialist from Oregon State College.

Peg Christie, former Klamath county 4-H extension agent, now living in Salem, will be in charge of the recreation group which includes song and yell leaders.

City 4-H leaders will discuss project record book keeping with Jim Bishop, Salem 4-H extension agent.

This annual training event is a feature of the yearly program planned by Salem 4-H leaders to help city boys and girls become better club officers.

Coffee Break Brought to School Board

Bringing an apple to the teacher is an old custom but providing the school directors with coffee and cookies is something new in educational circles. At least it is to members of the local board.

Tuesday night's school board conference, four members of the Hoover PTA provided the "coffee break." They did not indicate they were "apple polishing," but expressed a desire to understand the problems of the district. They remained throughout the entire session, something new in visitations.

It was suggested that the board hold their sessions in various schools of the system, an idea that met with the directors' favor.

"If the mountain will not go to Mahomet, Mahomet must go to the mountain," quoted Chairman Roy Stewart.

Record 4-H Delegation Will Leave for Chicago

The largest delegation Oregon has ever had to the National 4-H Club Congress will leave Portland on Thanksgiving day. They will arrive in Chicago November 28, the day before the Congress opens.

Traveling in the Oregon group will be 14 4-H club members who received trips as state winners in their divisions, and another four who won trips in sectional competition.

Oregon has never before had representatives in both achievement and leadership the same year, according to Burton S. Hutton, state 4-H club leader.

Others previously announced as winning trips in state contests are Mary Meier, 17, Hillsboro, canning; Judie A. Scott, 17, Hood River, clothing; Ralph Crawford, 17, Tigard, dairy achievement; Diane Jones, 17, Albany, dress revue; Larry A. No Restrictions Christmas Greens

The time of year is approaching when many individuals want to take or send cut Christmas greenery to their friends and relatives in California. If you are one of these persons, just go ahead as though you were taking them to your neighbor across the street.

You don't need any inspection on cut greenery (holly, salal, fern, huckleberry and similar cut items) to take them into California. And you won't have any trouble getting them across the border stations at the California line. This is the word from the Oregon department of agriculture based on contact with plant officials of the California department.

Persons should bear in mind this applies only to cut greenery. Plants as such come under provisions of the state nursery here, which entails licensing and inspection for dangerous pests and diseases.

News reporters will meet with June Goetze, information specialist from Oregon State College.
