

Nyhus Freed, Will Hunt Job

Albert Nyhus, who had spent 21 of his 57 years locked up in the state penitentiary, was a free man today.

He was released Wednesday afternoon after a hearing in Marion county circuit court following favorable action November 14 by Judge Rex Kimmell on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Kimmell ruled that Nyhus was being illegally held under the habitual criminal act. He was sent up from Klamath county where he was accused of obtaining money by false pretenses. Judge Kimmell had previously determined that Nyhus had not been advised of his legal rights before he entered a plea in the Klamath circuit court.

Proceedings for a writ of habeas corpus were instituted about six months ago.

Nyhus, given a check for $50, the amount tendered prisoners upon being released from the penitentiary, spent Wednesday night in a YMCA room. He said his first objective was to secure a job.

Morse Carps at White House

Lebanon — Speaking to approximately 600 people from all sections of Linn county Tuesday night in the high school gymnasium, Sen. Wayne Morse dwelt on the administration's hurried assault on the off shore oil reserves and emphasized that the Hill amendment, lost by only two votes, represented a sell-out at the White House level. He estimated $80 million in royalties lost to Oregon's schools through its defeat.

The senator promised to carry the fight for the high dam in Hell's canyon in the senate with all the zeal which marked his opposition to the transfer of the off-shore oil from federal control. The low dams proposed on upper Snake river by Idaho Power makes untenable the Hell's Canyon dam with resultant crippling of the overall Columbia basin development for power, flood control, irrigation, and sustained flow through water storage, Morse said.

Questioned on the probability of Green Peter dam being constructed on the South Santiam, Morse said, "The dam will be built if you take an active interest in it and unceasingly demand it."

Harry Wiley, master of Linn Pomona grange introduced the senator and Mrs. Morse as well as representatives of the farm and labor sponsoring groups.

At the dinner given in the high school cafeteria to honor the senator and his wife, Mayor Elmer Fitzgerald acted as master of ceremonies.
